R.R. STRIKE SPREADS TO DETROIT

PRESIDENT URGED TO ACT

White House Indicates Railroad Labor Board Will Be Named at Once

Detroit, April 8.—Fifteen hundred switchmen and yardmen employed by railroads entering Detroit joined the country-wide strike of railroad switchmen today.

Washington, April 8.—President Wilson may appoint the Railroad Labor Board provided for by the Cummins-Esch bill within twenty-four hours, in an effort to relieve the Chicago strike situation, it was stated at the White House today. Strong pressure is being brought upon the President for quick action as affording a possible means of settling the strike.

By International News Service.

Chicago, April 8.—Grand lodge officers of the railroad brotherhoods today concentrated every means in their power to break the strike of switchmen, engineers and firemen in Chicago and to prevent what threatens to become a nation-wide walkout.

With strikes tying up freight traffic here and in Kansas City and Buffalo, and with walkouts threatened in St. Louis and Milwaukee, the railroads face the most serious situation that has confronted them in years.

The brotherhood chiefs, realizing that the preservation of their unions is at stake, joined with the railroad heads in a united effort to induce the strikers to return to work and to smash L. W. W. action that are declared to be behind the trouble.

The brotherhood officials expressed confidence that they would be able to break the back of the strike by the end of the week and that by tonight they would have from 40 to 75 per cent. of Chicago's normal freight traffic moving again.

The strikers, however, claim they are standing firmly together, assert that their ranks are being augmented by thousands of new members daily and declare that the strike is sure to spread. Within twenty-four hours they say not a switch engine will be operating in the entire Chicago railroad district.

Meantime thousands of stock-yards workers remain out of jobs because of the closing of activities there; a final famine in meat will cause a shut-

NEW RENT LAW DEMANDED

Speakers at Dorchester Meeting Predict Wholesale Gouging if Hays Bill is Killed

Brighton High School, tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock!

That's the place for the tenants of the Brighton and Allston districts, upon whose shoulders those familiar with the situation say has fallen the greatest burden of the rent profiteering evil, to gather.

For at that time and place will be held a big mass meeting to form a Brighton branch of the Boston American Tenants' League, a State-wide organization formed to aid legislation to end the rent profiteering evil.

Speakers at the mass meeting held at the Dorchester Municipal building laid great stress upon the fact that unless the present Legislature passes some measures to afford relief to tenants before adjourning a wild rampage of profiteering in rents may be expected next September. Only laws enacted by the present Legislature can stop this. And it is to further such legislation that the Boston American formed the Boston American Tenants' League.

Representative Frank H. Cowin of

Rent League Praised By Property Owner

Rent Editor, Boston American:

I like your Tenants' League idea. I am a tenant. I am also a property owner. The lease of my building has expired, and I could raise the rental of my tenants as other owners are doing. And I could get away with it, too.

I have not asked for an increase from my tenants for two reasons. First, they have paid me each month for years (eleven years), so they deserve some consideration for that. My second reason is this: I believe in playing fair, as it pays in the long run. If you will only keep after the "hogs" maybe things will adjust themselves for the tenants that are over-paying.

ARREST BOSTON GIRL PICKET

Miss Maura Quinn and Two Others Taken into Custody at British Embassy

By International News Service.

Washington, April 8.—After being warned that they faced arrest and a three-year penitentiary sentence, three women sympathizers with Ireland today volunteered to again picket the British Embassy. They were Misses Mary Calvin and Catherine McCune of Philadelphia and Miss Maura Quinn of Boston.

They prepared pro-Irish banners and announced at the headquarters that they would take their posts before the embassy in a short time.

The three pickets took up their positions in front of the British Embassy shortly before noon. A half-hour later they were placed under arrest.

A large number of sympathizers watched the picketing today and applauded the women.

150 P. C. Rent Increase Protested in Signs

Two tenants of small shops at No. 562 Columbia road, Dorchester, who have had their rents increased 150 per cent., to take effect on May 1, have placed signs in their windows, stating that the estate owning the property has increased their rentals to a point impossible to meet.

The tenants are Morris Slitzer, a cobbler, and P. Sullivan, awning manufacturer.

According to these men, since the signs have been displayed there have attracted the attention of thousands, making it uncomfortable for the trustees, and brought annoying visitors who have threatened to put them "behind the bars" if they continued to display the signs.

But the signs will remain in the windows until May 1, both shopkeepers declared.

Slitzer has been paying $35 a month for his place, and supports a wife and two children on the income of his trade. On April 1 he received a notice from the trustees stating the rent would be increased to $75 a month, beginning May 1. They are William H. James and Ralph Joslin of No. 10 Oxford street, named under the will of the late George M. P. Legg.

Slitzer stated that it was impossible for him to make an amount sufficient to meet the increase. As a result he posted the following sign, which takes up the greater part of his window:

Forced to vacate. Rent raised 150 per cent. Can't afford it. We don't sell 'plaster paris.' Legg estate owns this block."

P. Sullivan has been paying $38 a month for the other half of the store, which is partitioned by a thin wall from that of the cobbler. His business in a little better off, but the increase to $75 is stretching the dollar too far, he declared. He, too, has posted a sign. It reads as follows:

"May 1—moving to 756 Dudley street—around corner. Legg estate has raised rent 150 per cent." The last is in large red letters.

13 KILLED BY FRENCH TROOPS

30 Germans Wounded in Frankfort Battle; Disturbers Ordered Shot

London, April 8.—Thirteen Germans were killed and troops fired upon crowds in Frankfort yesterday, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Amsterdam today.

Paris, April 8.—Orders have been issued by the French military authorities in Germany to shoot down all civilians attempting to block the passage of General Degoutte's troops or create disturbances in the newly occupied districts of Germany, according to a dispatch from Mayence today.

Late advices put the number of Germans killed in Frankfort yesterday at seven. The French Senegalese troops opened fire with machine guns against a crowd of Germans when the commander of the Moroccan guard feared the Germans were going to make trouble.

Details of the trouble at Frankfort were received today. The trouble started when students organized a procession through the city and started forth singing patriotic songs. French troops sent to disperse them were met with jeers and insults.

While efforts were being made to scatter the students and onlookers, a French officer became separated from his men and it looked as if his life was in danger. It was then that the Senegalese troops were ordered to fire.

After a volley the troops started for-

SULLIVAN DEAD OF WOUND

John (Reno) Sullivan Was Shot by Patrolman Elliot; Conroy Recovering

John (Reno) Sullivan, one of the two gangsters shot by Patrolman Henry C. Elliot in Arlington square early Saturday morning, died today at the City Hospital.

Thomas H. Conroy, Sullivan's companion, is still at that hospital with a bullet wound in his right leg. He is expected to recover.

The men were shot by Elliot, according to his story, when they resisted arrest and when he believed his own safety was in danger.

The shooting followed a fight between the two men and Richard J. Blackmore, an agent of the United States Bureau of Commerce, who endeavored to interfere when he allegedly discovered the two robbing and assaulting another man in a Tremont street doorway.

Elliot arrived on the scene as the gangsters were beating Blackmore. He grappled with the men, but was thrown to the ground. Conroy held him, he declared, while Sullivan assaulted him. Elliot pulled his revolver and fired at them to save his own life, he declared.

Elliot has had considerable trouble with the so-called Arlington square gang and on a previous occasion shot "Beano" Breen during a disturbance.

SAY HYDE PARK WAS BETRAYED

'Abominable' Street Car Service Scored by Speakers at State House

Charges that Hyde Park residents were falsely promised a five-cent fare if they voted for annexation to Boston, and the stigmatizing of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railroad trustees as "autocrats who do nothing to provide service, no matter what help might be extended to them," featured a hearing before a legislative committee on the "abominable service" furnished in the Hyde Park section.

Forcible language was used by several of the speakers in voicing their grievances.

Demand was made that the franchise of the Eastern Massachusetts be revoked and that it be compelled to provide proper service.

Edward R. Bodfish, representing the Hyde Park American Legion, intimated that physical violence might follow a continuation of present conditions. "The people of Hyde Park," he declared, "are sick and tired of being told that their case is under consideration, and now are in a frame of mind to take the law into their own hands, and throw the Eastern Massachusetts out of town."

Former Senator Francis W. Darling declared "the residents of Hyde Park, when the district was a separate town, were promised a five cent fare by the politicians of Boston if they would agree to become part of the city. Instead they have been given a twenty cent fare and abominable service. The trustees of the Eastern Massachusetts are autocrats who do nothing to provide service, no matter what help might be extended to them. They deliberately pulled off employes from clearing tracks during the severe snowstorms of last Winter and hundreds of children were forced to wade through the snow on their way to school. The cars are so old that they are practically falling apart."

Rev. John Wallace Souter, Jr., rector of Christ Church, Hyde Park, asserted that services in his church were seriously disturbed by the cars rattling along the rickety tracks.

The Boston Elevated trustees will announce on next Thursday their proposed action in relation to giving service to Hyde Park, of which the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway is seeking to be relieved, according to Chairman James F. Jackson.

OVERCOME WHILE IN MANHOLE

Four Employes of Gas Company Succumb to Poisonous Fumes

Five employes of the Boston Consolidated Gas Company were overcome by illuminating gas, four of them with fatal results, while working in a manhole on Massachusetts avenue, Roxbury, today.

The men were rushed to the City Hospital, where one, Michael Maloney of No. 174 Rustis street, Roxbury, was resuscitated and immediately returned to the scene of the tragedy. Pulmotors were used on the other four without success.

The victims are:

PATRICK GLYNN, 27, No. 133 Shirley street, Roxbury, single.

DENNIS DUGGAN, 37, No. 966 Albany street, married.

JOHN PERLEY, 30, No. 2 Hayward terrace, Roxbury, married.

THOMAS DONLAN, 52, No. 16 Mills street, Roxbury, married.

According to the police, the five men were engaged in putting a cap on a gas main in a trench opposite No. 1142 Massachusetts avenue, Roxbury, when they struck a leak. Clouds of poisonous water filled the trench, overcoming the workers, who sank into unconsciousness.

DISCOVERED IN TRENCH.

Their predicament was discovered by Frank E. Lowe of No. 71 Marshall street, Mattapan, who ran across the street to the plant of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company and informed the gatemen. He immediately notified the company and summoned an ambulance from the City Hospital.

In the meantime Lowe with Patrolman King of the Dudley street station, employe of the Edison company and others, got the unconscious men out of the manhole and laid them on the ground. Rescue Squad No. 1 of the fire department was then sent for, but before it arrived the ambulance drove up. Maloney, with two other victims, was placed in the ambulance and rushed to the hospital, where pulmotors were applied. Maloney recovered in a short time and insisted on going back to the manhole and attempting to stop the leak. The other men failed to respond to the efforts of the physicians.

CALL EMERGENCY SQUAD.

The fourth victim was given first aid at the scene, and in turn was hurried to the hospital, where it was found that he also was dead.

An emergency squad armed with gas masks, was sent to the trench by the gas company, and the leak, which had impregnated the air for a considerable distance, was blocked up.

ward to rescue the officer. In addition to the Germans killed outright, others were wounded.

It was reported the trouble was intensified by rumors that the evacuation of Frankfort and Darmstadt had been ordered as a result of an ultimatum from Great Britain and America. These rumors emboldened the crowd. Huge crowds followed the German students into the Schillerplatz. The colored soldiers who tried to clear the square were reported to have been insulted about and pelted with stones. It required energetic action by the French troops to restore order.

By International News Service.

Although Hoela was expelled the Communists continue to give him moral support, threatening a general strike if the Reichswehr attempt to capture the marauding bands.

Officials here have no official knowledge that Germany has submitted the matter to the League of Nations.

Says France Is Willing to Submit Case to League

By International News Service.

Paris, April 8.—"Premier Millerand would ask nothing better than to submit Germany's flagrant peace treaty violations to the League of Nations," said Matin today in commenting upon the German protest against the French advance from the Rhine.

Germany took the stand in her note that the trouble over the Ruhr district should have been submitted to the League instead of employing military measures. French newspapers expressed belief that Great Britain would support France's military measures in Germany and predicted that announcement to this effect would probably be made within twenty-four hours.

L'Eclair in its comment upon the situation said that before the French troops are withdrawn from the German neutral zone Premier Millerand should require "serious guarantees" for the strict observance of all the treaty terms by Germany.

down of the city's industries impends and food shortage is manifesting itself through soaring prices.

The steel industry at Gary, Ind., is the latest to be affected. Reports from that city today say the strikers threaten to close the steel mills and that hundreds of men already have been laid off.

PERISHABLE FREIGHT WAITS.

Another addition to the strike was reported from Champagne, Ill., where 150 switchmen employed by the Illinois Central and Big Four Railroads went on strike, paralyzing operations in the freight yards. Many cars of perishable freight are tied up.

Reports that officials now in Chicago appeared at several meetings of the strikers and tried to prevail on them to return to work, but they got cool receptions as compared to the spirit in which the speeches of strike leaders were received.

Washington took a hand in the strike by sending Assistant Commissioner Hanger of the United State Board of Mediation and Conciliation here. He is expected merely to investigate the situation and report without making any effort to settle the strike, however.

That the railroads cannot pay the wage increases demanded by the strikers was the basis of a statement made by Judge C. A. Prouty, director of valuation of the Interstate Commerce Commission. He said that all questions of wage advances would have to be passed on by the wage board provided for in the Esch-Cummins bill, which has not yet been appointed, and termed the strike as "hopeless."

1,400 Switchmen Strike on Nine Lines in Kansas City

Kansas City, Mo., April 8.—Fourteen hundred switchmen in this city are on strike today. Switching operations in the yards of the affected roads virtually are at a standstill. The roads so far affected are the Santa Fe, Burlington, Chicago & Great Western, Chicago & Alton, St. Louis & San Francisco, Kansas City Southern, Kansas City Terminal, Missouri Pacific and Wabash.

Boston Labor Men See No Danger of Local Strike

Conflict of opinion developed between Boston labor leaders today as to their probable course in case the unauthorized strike of switchmen, firemen and engineers spreads to this city. All were agreed that the chances of the strike reaching Boston were slight.

Local leaders of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers referred to the Chicago strikers as outlaws. They declared that their unions would help the railroads crush the unauthorized strike, replacing strikers with union men.

T. J. Coyle, international president of the Brotherhood of Railway Station Employes, differed with the local leaders as to the latter point. He agreed that the chances of the strike spreading to Boston were small, but added that if it did, no members of his union would be allowed to take their places.

C. W. Cooper, secretary of Trainmen's Local No. 97, said: "The strikers in Chicago are outlaws. The strike means nothing to us. It will never reach here. There are a few malcontents in South Boston, but most of those who would be disposed to start an unauthorized strike have been thrown out of the unions."

H. A. Twichell, business agent of the engineers' local, said: "So far as I know, there is little probability of the Chicago strike spreading to Boston. If the strike does start here, we will replace strikers with loyal union men. Strikers who are members of unions will be expelled."

E. J. Blake, general chairman for the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers on the Boston & Maine system, said: "I don't look for the strike to come further east than Buffalo. Our membership is gaining, and contentment is average."

George C. Hammond, general chairman of the Brotherhood of Railway Conductors, felt the same about the spread of the unauthorized strike. He said that it would be "up to the union men themselves" whether they would replace strikers in case of a walkout in defiance of the orders of the international officers.

Brotherhood Heads Meet In Effort to Stop Strike

Cleveland, April 8.—In an effort to curb the spread of the unauthorized strike of railroad employes, heads of the three railroad brotherhoods in Cleveland were in conference here today.

Those who attended the meeting were W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen; Warren S. Stone, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and Timothy Shea, head of the railroad firemen and enginemen.

MRS. CROKER 'AMBITIOUS AND ABOVE REPROACH' WHILE IN BOSTON

FRIENDS HERE SURPRISED AT "VAMPIRE" CHARGES

Mrs. Richard Croker, the Indian wife of the ancient Tammany boss who is the storm centre of the contest between the politician and his children to place a guardianship over him, "was of exemplary character" while she lived in this city, according to the statement of the woman with whom she came into closest con-

This is direct refutation of the charges of the younger Crokers that their stepmother was "a vampire" and a "Broadway cabaret girl."

Mrs. S. S. Curry, vice-president of the Curry School of Expression, today told of the Indian girl's life at her school. She described her as "a perfect little lady; an ambitious woman, and "a girl above reproach, delightful to know because of her sweet disposition and her gentle ways." Mrs. Curry said:

"We had the present Mrs. Richard Croker here for two years, in which time she completed the course of study which generally takes a third year. I never had pleasanter associations with any of our students. It is our custom here, with all the students we have, to recommend them to real homes, where real gentlewomen will take an oversight of the girls as her own mother would, in her own home. Sometimes, for various reasons, girls do not like to live in homes where the oversight is constant and careful.

HAS "BEYOND REPROACH."

"But little Mrs. Richard Croker sent into a most careful home, which I selected for her, and lived in the one place during her entire course. I was speaking with the lady with whom she lived the other day. Never, one evening, was Mrs. Croker out that I did not know where she was and who was her chaperon," said this woman to me. 'As a girl, she was most tractable, and beyond reproach, as we knew her here in the student days in Boston.

"Of course Mrs. Croker is an Indian, and plainly shows her derivation. But she is so very beautiful that everybody must remark her loveliness. Her chief interest while here was study, getting on in her work. After she left us and returned to her native State of Oklahoma, she started a school of expression there, and made very good money on it, we heard. She certainly deserved to, judging by the quality of her work.

"I remember an Indian pageant she staged while with us. She brought quaint Indian songs; she costumed the whole piece herself; she arranged for outside acting; every detail she saw to. It was a most successful and duplicated later by her in other places on a smaller scale.

"As I knew Mrs. Croker before her marriage, I would not wish to include in my list of students a view woman in every sense of the word. I do not believe one word of calumny any of her enemies may bring, and believe she has always been what we knew her to be here, for two years, an exemplary lady, above reproach."

CALL HER A "VAMPIRE."

The Croker children demand control of the political leader's vast estate on the ground that he is of unsound mind and under the domination of his "vampire wife." In the most recent statements issued by Mrs. Croker, she details her life in Oklahoma as student and teacher, and speaks of her study in elocution in this city. She denies in toto the charges that she is a "Broadway vampire," or a "cabaret girl."

Mrs. Croker, at her Palm Beach, Fla., home, has made answer to the attacks upon her reputation contained in the papers of the suits brought by children of her husband.

Mrs. Croker, aware of her life, as detailed in a statement given by Harold Nathan, Croker's counsel, is as follows:

MAINTAINED HERSELF.

"She was born in what was the Indian Territory, near Mayeville, Ark., in 1884. She was educated in the Cherokee National Female Seminary at Tahlequah, Indian Territory, and was graduated in 1903. She attended the Summer school at Chicago University. She taught mathematics in the Tahlequah Seminary for about five years. In 1908 she went to Boston and entered Dr. Curry's School of Expression. There she covered a four-year course in three years. Her parents paid her expenses.

"She returned to Indian Territory about 1911 and taught elocution to private pupils in Muskokee. In March, 1913, she represented Oklahoma in the suffrage parade that was made part of the inauguration events. From Washington she went to New York. Here she lived for about a year. She maintained herself by giving recitals and by remittances from her parents.

NEVER WAS CHORUS GIRL.

"The statements that have been made that she was a chorus girl and chorus singer, that she appeared at Churchill's and in the Hippodrome chorus, are wilfully, absolutely false. She never appeared at Churchill's and never appeared at the Hippodrome. She has been accused of having a gay time in the Summer of 1914 where she spent that Summer giving recitals in a number of camps of boys and girls in New England.

"The sensational charges made against Mrs. Croker are baseless and monstrous fabrications, unsupported by competent proof. She will no longer tamely submit to the spreading of such false and defamatory statements."

WIFE'S TEMPER ISSUE IN CASE

She Scratched and Hit and Was Thrown Down Stairs According to Testimony

Testimony that the wife had "a terrible temper," which found vent in scratching and biting, and that the husband dragged his better half by the hair and threw her down stairs, figured today in the tangled on cross-suits for divorce brought by Thomas J. Reardon, of Medford, and Grace L. Reardon, of Everett.

The case was before Judge Keating in the contested divorces session, East Cambridge Court. Both charge unfaithfulness, and the wife alleges non-support, cruelty, and gross and confirmed habits of intoxication.

Mrs. Gertrude M. Sullivan, who keeps a lodging house in Lynn, testified that she asked Mrs. Reardon to leave her establishment after discovering that the latter carried a knife, slapped and scratched other boarders, bit one of them, and threatened to "rot the heart out" of several.

George P. Dixon testified that as a volunteer detective for the husband he followed Mrs. Reardon and a man into a Lynn hotel, from which they were later ejected, and Mrs. Alice Brown, a sister of Mrs. Reardon, said that she followed Reardon and a woman to a real estate office in Charlestown.

JOHN D. LEAPS INTO TROUSERS

Rockefeller, Junior, Dresses in Six Minutes on Train at Cleveland

By International News Service.

Cleveland, O., April 8.—"That is the fastest that I've got into my trousers in the past twenty years," said John D. Rockefeller, Jr., as the Interchurch World Movement car drew into the station of Rockefeller's home town today.

Rockefeller had understood the train would arrive an hour later than it did. He crawled out of his berth, and was fully dressed and ready to meet a committee of Cleveland business men six minutes later on the station platform.

Henry Ford and Rockefeller spoke highly of each other after their meeting in Detroit.

"I had heard a lot of Ford," said Rockefeller. "But I was agreeably surprised. I think he is a fine man who sees things big."

"He's the best informed young man that ever put his foot into my office," Ford said of Rockefeller.

Ford showed Rockefeller both the tractor and the passenger car plants where machines are made to eat up the Rockefeller gasoline.

There are eight clergymen in the Rockefeller party. The young millionaire calls them all "Boss." He is speaking three and four times a day. He says in every address that "the spirit of the Carpenter of Nazareth" is the only thing he knows that will help to set the world aright.

WALTHAM STRIKERS ACCEPT OTHER JOBS

SEIZED LIQUOR IS GIVEN BACK

Court Rules That Search Warrant Is Needed Where Goods Are Not in Sight

Liquor which is not visible from the door of a saloon or other building cannot be seized without a search warrant, according to a new ruling made by Judge Michael J. Murray in the Municipal Court today.

In accordance with this decision, which established a new rule in lower court liquor cases, an order was issued for the return of seven gallons of whiskey seized from the cellar of Peter Noonan & Co.'s bar, No. 178 Kneeland street.

The ruling was made in response to a petition by Attorney Herbert A. Kenney, counsel for Noonan, who claimed that the seven gallons of whiskey should be returned, as it was taken without a warrant.

In the raid on Noonan's saloon the officers secured several quarts of whiskey from behind the bar, then searched and found more in the cellar. Noonan was fined in the lower court, went to the Superior Court on appeal, where the decision was sustained and a fine of $100 imposed.

Judge Murray, who had taken the case under advisement, ruled that in the matter of the whiskey behind the bar the government should prevail in forfeiture proceedings.

Harvard Chorus Girls Strike in a Huff

The strike of Harvard chorus girls is on. It happened because they were asked to speak ladylike, at least as ladylike as they looked.

The Hasty Pudding show has a small but beautiful chorus, and so far they have gone on the merry way of the ladies of the front row—care free, full of pep and with lots of jazz. But Coach Alexandra Carlisle wasn't satisfied with the familiarity put in the line. "Here he comes, girls," to announce the appearance of Abel Kidder, off-stage known as "Tubby" Clark, Harvard's heaviest basso profundo.

"A little sweeter, girls," requested the charming Alexandra. "Make it charming, womanlike, soft."

"Yes," claimed in Tubby, "but not too loud to be vulgar."

"I am doing my best," volunteered one sweet miss who would have looked for all the world like Lucretia Craig if she hadn't been bow-legged.

"If that's you're best," answered back the coach, "I would hate to listen to your worst."

"Oh, dear, I am putting all the femininity that is in me into these lines," almost crept another. "Mary Garden and all her perfume couldn't do any better."

"You tell it to her, Jackie," moaned another to J. T. Baldwin, the olive-skinned beauty of the chorus. "I feel as if my throat was cut."

"We will strike for our rights," chirped one adventurous miss who answered to the name of Cobb, and there was a chorus of yeas, and twelve chorus girls, adorned in all their glory, filed out singly with their noses extended upward and immediately adopted a neighboring one-armed lunch, to the satisfaction of numerous Harvard students gathered there.

But orders to report today followed them, and all the remainder of the cast of "Barnum Was Right," knowing the value of a perfect thirty-six chorus with Broadway show model faces, are hoping that for the success of the show that the strike will be called off. Even the stars' dressing room is available if the girls will only return.

The striking choristers are T. S. Lamont, L. T. Lamman, H. S. Gibbs, F. M. Bacon, J. V. Spalding, L. B. Van Ingen, J. O. Stubbs, D. Falvey, A. E. Chambers, J. T. Baldwin, T. G. Ames and W. W. Carwell.

SOCIETY WOMEN AT 'RED' TRIAL

Mrs. Sayre Hears Habeas Corpus Proceedings by Alleged Communists

Mrs. Francis B. Sayre, daughter of President Wilson, was an interested spectator today at the habeas corpus proceedings begun in United States District Court by alleged Communists under sentence of deportation.

Mrs. Sayre followed the testimony closely. She was one of a group of society women which included Mrs. George W. Anderson, wife of the presiding judge; Mrs. Frank Dunbar and Mrs. J. A. Lawrence. Rev. A. A. Berle also was present.

Alleged manacling and "chaining" of the Communists taken in the January drive was the subject of close questioning of Department of Justice agents at the morning session.

Assistant Division Superintendent William J. West of the department was the principal witness. He said that he knew the alleged "Reds" were handcuffed, but knew nothing of the use of chains except from photographs he saw in the newspapers.

Mr. West denied that "underworld" agents had played a large part in investigations which preceded the anti-radical campaign in January. He declared that no "agents provocateur" had been used, and that there had been no attempt by his agents to stimulate "Red" activities just before the raids to make sure of evidence.

He said department agents had been furnished with a list of meetings to be conducted by a Lithuanian Communist named Coralis, and that many of those taken were caught at these meetings. Asked if Coralis was an agent for the department, West declined to say, then replied: "Not to my knowledge."

Judge Anderson took up the questioning of West after counsel for the petitioners had finished. Mr. and Mrs. William C. Bullitt of Wellesley are the principal petitioners. There are three others directly affected.

Today's proceedings will affect the status of all the alleged Communists still held at Deer Island or out on bail.

WILSON BRINGS BOOM DAYS TO CAPE COD

Buzzards Bay, April 8.—The demand for shore cottages and property on the Cape has considerably increased since President Wilson made the announcement that he would spend the Summer at Woods Hole. It is almost impossible to find a place to rent or for sale. An example of the abnormal value of Cape property is seen in the fact that a piece of land, rented at $40 in 1890, sold a few days ago for $15,000.

GERMAN REICHSWEHR USE FLAME THROWERS

Coblenz, April 8.—Reichswehr (German government troops) used flame throwers against the Reds when they stormed Remscheidorf yesterday, causing scores of casualties, according to information received at the headquarters of the American army of occupation today. APOLOGIZES TO FOUR GIRLS FOR SWEARING

Apologizing for using profane language to four girls in a millinery store on Lowell street, West End, Joseph Panasta was discharged today by Judge Murray in the Municipal Court after the young women had acknowledged satisfaction. Panasta bought a woman's hat, but returned and demanded his money back. In the argument, Panasta swore and tore up the hat.

Blind Doughboys Win Success as Partners

Washington, April 8.—An unusual story of how two disabled doughboys—one totally blind, the other almost so—formed a successful partnership in business was revealed at the Federal Vocational Training Board here. Both men have received training, storekeeping at Evergreen, the Red Cross school in Baltimore for soldiers blinded in the war.

The two men had been "bunkies" at the institution and became very fast friends. They learned to keep store, and found that the nature of their individual disabilities fitted them very well for partners—the totally blind man to buy, and the other could. According to reports to the board they are doing successfully in their chosen life venture.

At present there are 232 doughboys registered with the board as cases of total blindness or seriously defective eyesight. Most of these cases are being trained in Evergreen, where they receive training chiefly in such work that will make the ears and hands take the place of the eyes, and others are adjusted themselves to their new conditions.

A newly blind man, it has been found, is like a child, and must adjust himself to his environment.

Wilson Will Leave for Woods Hole in May

Washington, April 8.—"The President is at present better off physically than he has been at any time since he became indisposed," Dr. Gary T. Grayson, personal physician to President Wilson, said today.

Although Dr. Grayson disclaimed any intention of denying persistent rumors current that the President recently "suffered another slight stroke," he thought it proper to make the above statement.

It is likely that President and Mrs. Wilson will leave for Woods Hole, Mass., early in May, according to the best information available.

Early today he again went to the house and when no one answered his call, the police say, Libby went to a window, where his act would be within view of his wife, took a razor from his pocket and inflicted a deep wound in his throat.

Mrs. Libby ran to the Roxbury Crossing Police Station, where she told the officer in charge, "a man had cut his throat on her lawn." The police did not learn that the man was her husband until they reached the house.

CLAIMS RECORD FOR U. S. NAVY

Admiral Wilson Says Preparedness of Fleet Was Equalled by No Other Nation

By International News Service.

Washington, April 8.—The active vessels of the fleet were better prepared for war in 1917 than they had ever been before, Admiral Henry B. Wilson, commanding the Atlantic fleet, declared today before a Senate sub-committee investigating Rear Admiral Sims' charges of unpreparedness.

"I have no hesitation in saying no nation upon the approach of war has had a force of battleships more nearly prepared for battle than was the force which I had the honor to command which spent the Winter of 1916-1917 in Southern waters," Admiral Wilson said. "And I feel sure that if this force had engaged an enemy on its cruise north, in the Spring of 1917, the victory would have been ours."

Admiral Wilson said "full and complete plans had been drawn up to meet the enemy in case he made our coast."

"From the moment war was declared the navy entered into the prosecution of the war with the greatest energy, and its accomplishments deserve the commendation of the nation."

Admiral Wilson said that as soon as British and French admiralties made their wishes known definite and efficient steps were taken to send our available ships overseas."

"The arrangements with the British admiralty, as a result of Admiral Wilson said, "did not express any dire need for help or great emergency.

"But the splendid and efficient work" materially shortened the war, Wilson declared, and thus saved "many life and much property." What we consider what it did do, the things it did not do, the mistakes it made are relatively unimportant that they are hardly worth considering in comparison," he said.

PASTOR HEARD IN VICE PROBE

Dr. Straton Tells N. Y. Grand Jury of Experiences on Cabaret Trip

New York, April 8.—The Rev. Dr. John Roach Straton, whose sermon on conditions in the district along Broadway has kept the city in expectation of more exposures and a few indictments, appeared before a federal Grand Jury here.

The government's interest was due to the Rev. Mr. Straton's charge that the proprietors of the grandiest of the light resorts have been doing business precisely as it there were no Mr. Volstead or no enforcement note for the Eighteenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution.

LENT ON TESTIMONY.

When Dr. Straton left the jury room after a half-hour, he would not divulge his testimony, but it is a good bet that he gave the jurors a number of acts revealing the names and addresses of the places where he said he and two companions bought whisky at $2 a slip.

The government's investigation marks a fourth into the moral condition of the big town. Two State committees are at work and Comptroller of Accounts Hirshfield is making a special inquiry for Mayor Hylan information.

Police Commissioner Enright declared that he is to resign. There seem to believe that there was no call for the report. The situation is complicated by State and municipal politics and the elimination of Enright as commissioner might simplify affairs for Mayor Hylan. Enright is aggressive former policeman and his personality is notable lends itself to adaptation in a situation where tact and diplomacy are needed. During his administration there has been no scandal.

PAID PROMOTED.

Thrilling excitement was started by Assistant District-Attorney Jim Smith when he indicted a deputy police commissioner and a couple of detectives. He was in not much interest until Straton gave his sensational report that there has been a loose moral atmosphere about the cabarets that survived prohibition was generally known, but, awaiting proof that there is general viciousness with the police participating, the public is generally inclined to believe that New York is cleaner than it has ever been.

Enright announces the promotion of Inspector Joseph A. Faurot to be a deputy commissioner. Faurot, long head of the detective bureau and a finger print expert, has been regarded as not especially friendly toward Enright, who held subordinate rank for years.

Tall Dark Man Gets Chelsea Chickens

A tall, dark man, with a long black coat, trailing mustaches and a black hat pulled over his eyes, and a few sackfuls of chickens, is the object of a vigorous search by the Chelsea police. For such an individual has been prowling through Chelsea, depriving optimistic residents of their poultry and cutting his own costs of living.

Eight hens and a rooster, value $24, disappeared from J. Levenson's hen coop on Michael's place; twenty-six hens valued at $78 have been transferred from their happy home in Benjamin Winberg's yard at No. 90 Blossom street, and five hens and ducks have gone from Morris Leverson's yard at No. 204 William street.

$420,000,000 ASKED FOR ROADS BY HINES

Washington, April 7.—Walker D. Hines, director of the railroad administration, asked the House Appropriations Committee for $420,000,000 to pay the guaranteed standard rental returns to the railroads until September 1 next. He explained the need for an appropriation to cover railroad claims amounting to about $16,000,000 and suggested an additional appropriation of $3,500,000 to close up the work of the railroad administration.

PROHIBITION IN 'FIGHT FOR LIFE'

Wheeler Says 'Wets' Are Gathering Big Fund to Influence Congress and Court

By International News Service.

Washington, April 8.—Prohibition is now fighting for its life, declared Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon League, here today in an address before the Methodist conference.

Wheeler said there was a drive on to elect a Congress "that will weaken the Volstead code so as to provide for the sale of beer and wine"; to prevent State Legislatures from enacting laws to make the eighteenth amendment enforceable by State officers, and "the liquor interests admit that they hope to influence the courts in their construction of the eighteenth amendment and national prohibition law."

Wheeler charged that the association opposed to national prohibition had sent out a confidential appeal for funds in order "to crystalize" anti-prohibition sentiment by the expenditure of a very considerable sum of money," because "the members of the United States Supreme Court are very sensitive to public opinion."

The Michigan primary vote for Governor Edwards of New Jersey was "weak" Wheeler said, and "shows that the campaign of nullification is not meeting with favor."

Mexico City, April 8.—General Gonzales Obregon, Carranza's one-time military chief and victor over Villa and a candidate for the presidency, was acquitted by a military court after being summoned to answer charges that he had been concerned in a conspiracy to overthrow the Carranza government. He was examined for five hours.

Mrs. Bragdon said that about 70,000 women are registered to vote for school committee, and that the enactment by passage of the Young bill to allow them to be transferred to all the other citing lists automatically upon the ratification of the National amendment.

EAT LESS MEAT IF BACK HURTS

Take a glass of Salts to Flush Kidneys if bladder bothers you

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.—Advertisement.

Cupid's Aide Deplores Hasty Marriages

"Young people today are rushing into marriage blinded by temporary prosperity. It is too big a risk."

City Registrar Edward W. McGlenen, who has been issuing marriage licenses for many years, and who knows whereof he speaks, declared today that people were taking advantage of abnormally prosperous conditions and were rushing into matrimony heedlessly without any thought of the future.

FUTURE NEGLECTED.

"Marriage is on the increase," Mr. McGlenen stated. "Records show 1,950 licenses issued for four months of this year, as against 3,798 for last year. A great proportion of these are young working people, with plenty of money on hand, but with absolutely no idea of planning for the days when conditions will be more normal and wages less.

"It's all right for older people to marry—they know enough to think and plan for themselves. They have had the experience of saving money, and they are not carried away by extravagant standards. But young folks are up against it. Rents are high, furniture is high, food is high. A man needs to be wealthy to be able to furnish an ordinary flat—if he's lucky enough to find one.

"In the old days, when two people wanted to get married, they had their home expenses all itemized and put aside. They knew how much they were going to spend for the parlor furniture and the baking tins and the dining room set, and usually they had the money saved beforehand. Nowadays, all people have is their day's pay and they spend that before the day is over. But they get married just the same."

SAYS "WAR BRIDES" REGRET.

Mr. McGlenen decried the number of "war brides" who are having time to reconsider their hasty marriages.

"There were too many of them," he stated. "It's all right to get married, but it's quite another thing to find a home and to earn the price to keep it up. Some day conditions will be normal again, but I suppose young people will always be foolish."

SUMMON POOL ROOM KEEPERS

Watch and Ward Agents Cause Sensation in Malden Complaints

A sensation occurred in Malden today when an agent of the Watch and Ward Society, with Judge Edward B. O'Brien, counsel for the organization, appeared in District Court and secured sixteen summonses for alleged violation of the law that prohibits the presence of minors in poolrooms.

This is the result of a secret investigation by agents of the Watch and Ward, who mingled with the players in various poolrooms and secured evidence.

The agents circulated a paper offering a subscription to a "boys' magazine" to all youths under twenty-one. Several boys signed their names, ages and addresses to the papers.

Complaints of minors being allowed to play in poolrooms have been made by irate parents to the Malden police on several occasions. The police warned the proprietors of poolrooms and officers were ordered to watch them.

This failed to remedy conditions, parents declared, and the Watch and Ward Society took a hand in the case. Police Commissioner Edwin C. Burbank declared all he knew of the matter was what happened in court today. He intimated he would start an investigation.

WARNED THAT GAS IN SEWERS IS MENACE

The Department of Public Safety, at the request of the Metropolitan District Commission, today sent out warnings to all garages in the metropolitan sewage district, that gasoline must no longer be allowed to seep into sewers. Garage men were informed by George C. Neal of the Fire Prevention division of the department that the presence of gasoline, kerosene and oil in sewers constitutes a menace. It was pointed out that the dangers of explosions grew greater as the water receded in the sewers, allowing the combustibles to vaporize.

REAL ESTATE GAMBLING SCORED BY HAYS

EXPLAINS NEED OF NEW RENT LAW AT DORCHESTER MASS MEETING

Dorchester presided at the meeting. The principal speaker was Representative Martin Hays of Brighton, who earlier in the day had presented to the Joint Judiciary Committee of the Legislature a bill through which he hopes to remedy the rent profiteering evil.

Representative Hays repeated to his audience substantially what he had told his fellow legislators, explaining how flagrant cases of rent profiteering in his own district had led him to give the situation much thought and study. He quoted General Sherburne of the Commission on the Necessaries of Life to show the gambling in real estate now going on, and outlined the provisions of his bill.

He also advocated a measure to assess real property upon its rental value or income value, as is done in Europe, instead of upon its investment value, and explained that if this were done the landlords would pay a portion of every rent increase in taxes so that the community at large would benefit.

Senator Charles A. Winchester and Representatives Daniel C. Murphy and William E. McDonnell of Dorchester indorsed the Hays bill, and the purposes for which the Boston American Tenants' League was formed.

WAR HERO EVICTED.

President Victor A. Heath of the League explained the purpose of that body. He recited a particularly painful case which had come to his own attention but recently, of a wounded negro veteran who was not only rejected but jailed by a landlord and only released after Mr. Heath had paid a constable a small sum for which this veteran of the World War was being held.

Intense interest is being manifested in Brighton and Allston in the big mass meeting to be held at the Brighton High School Hall tomorrow night, at 8 o'clock, at which Representative Hays will be the principal speaker.

According to many residents of this section who have written to the American, this portion of Boston has been a particularly fertile one for the profiteer in property, and for this reason the residents of these sections have a heart interest in the matter.

Property Juggling Revealed in Probe

The manner in which property in Boston is juggled from owner to owner, and an example of the so-called mortgage bonus evil, was brought out at a hearing before the Commission on the Necessaries of Life during an investigation into the circumstances surrounding a three-family house at No. 36 Irma street, Dorchester.

At present the property is owned by M. Cooper, although, according to one of the tenants, six other persons have owned the building during the past three years. Each sale he declared has been accompanied by an increase in rent.

It came to light during the investigation that although the property is assessed for only $5,700 it carries four mortgages totalling $7,000. The owner testified that he bought the house for $8,500, but was forced to pay $300 bonus to agents who procured the mortgages.

This bonus evil, generally accepted among real estate operators, is another extortion that is "within the law," and which the commissioner would like to see eliminated through adequate legislation.

According to a tenant of one of the flats the rent has been boosted in three years from $19 to $27, and another raise to $31 is contemplated. Under the present rent, the commission discovered the owner gets a return of more than 13 per cent. on his flimsy equity of $1,500.

This case was reviewed at length and was continued for further investigation.

REFUSED TO ANSWER.

Charles Nessery, who testified that he has the power of attorney on a three-family house at No. 144 Hillside road, Roxbury, declared that he did not know the address of the real owner and refused to give the commission any help in locating him.

Throughout the investigation Nessery presented a sullen appearance and on several occasions refused to answer questions put to him by Mayor Adams, one of the commissioners.

He was complained of for raising the rents on his apartments from $25 to $35 and of threatening to eject all the tenants unless they paid $40. According to the commission the owner is at the present time receiving more than a 2o per cent. return on the money invested in the property.

This case was also continued for further investigation, to allow the commission time to find the owner of the property and to serve him with a summons.

CHARGED COMMISSION.

The commission is investigating a complaint that the Henry W. Savage Company charged a tenant a commission for procuring an apartment.

Mrs. Alberta F. Copeland, manager of the State House News Service, declares that when she hired the apartment at No. 7 Naples road, Brookline, she was compelled to pay the brokerage commission, although according to real estate practice this commission should be borne by the property owner.

Mrs. Copeland also declares that the owner refused to allow her to sublet the apartment from a lessee, but instead closed the lease and charged her 25 per cent. additional rent.

New York Landlords Restrained In Courts

New York, April 8.—Hundreds of landlords received a surprise in city courts when judges slashed rents to new low figures. They made landlords prove exactly what rents had been charged in March, 1919, and permitted flat increases of only 20 per cent. over such amounts, where more than 20 per cent. was unreasonable.

At the session of the Mayor's committee, Judge John P. Finnerty, sitting as an expert, denied each motion for an eviction.

By order of Mayor Hylan, a deputy corporation counsel was sent to every municipal court to represent tenants, free of charge. In addition, Chairman Hilly of the committee announced that attorneys who reside in the various districts will meet nightly in conference in each court house and will not only give legal advice to landlord and tenant, but will decide disputes free of charge.

The plan of New York city, through the Board of Estimate, to build emergency homes to relieve the housing situation, was held to be illegal by acting Corporation Counsel Nicholson, who recommended that the State constitution be amended to permit the city to incur indebtedness for that purpose.

Mayor Hylan announced that within a week his committee on erection of dwellings would begin operations.

New Hair Growth After BALDNESS

On legal affidavit, John Hart Brittain, business man, certified to this: "My head at the top and back was absolutely bald. The scalp was shiny. As experts said that he thought the hair roots were extinct, and there was no hope of my ever having a new hair growth. "Yet now, at an age over 60, I have a luxuriant growth of soft, strong, lustrous hair! No trace of baldness. The pictures shown here are from my photographs." Mr. Brittain credited further:

INDIAN'S SECRET OF HAIR GROWTH

"At a time when I had become discouraged at trying various hair lotions, tonics, specialists' treatments, etc., I came across, in my travels, a Cherokee Indian 'medicine man' who had an elixir that he ascertained would grow my hair, although I had but little faith, I gave it a trial. To my amazement a light fuzz soon appeared. It developed, day by day, into a healthy growth, and are long my hair was as prolific as in my youthful days.

That I was astonished and happy is expressing my state of mind wildly. Obviously, the hair roots had not been dead, but were dormant in the scalp, awaiting the fertilizing potency of the mysterious pomade. I negotiated for and came into possession of the principle for preparing this mysterious elixir, now called Kotalko, and later had the recipe put into practical form by a chemist.

That my own hair growth was permanent has been amply proved."

After hair growth.

How YOU May Grow YOUR Hair

It has been proved in very many cases that hair roots did not die even when the hair fell out through dandruff, fever, diphtheria disease or certain other hair or scalp disorders. Miss A. D. Otis reports: "About 8 years ago my hair began to fall out until my scalp in spots was almost entirely bald. I used everything that was recommended but was always disappointed until at last I came across Kotalko. My bald spots are being covered now; the growth is already almost three inches." G. W. Mitchell reports: "I had spots completely bald, over which hair is now growing since I used Kotalko." Mrs. Matilda Maxwell reports: "The whole front of my head was as bald as the palm of my hand for about 15 years. Since using Kotalko, hair is growing all over the place that was bald." Many more splendid reports from satisfied users.

WIN U. S. PEOPLE, PAISH ADVISES

Home Rule for Ireland Suggested as One Way to Get Billion Fund

By International News Service.

Washington, April 8.—In Sir George Paish's secret report to the British government, proposing the creation of a "revolving fund" of a billion dollars in the United States for the reconstruction of Europe, three things are mentioned as essential to the success of the scheme:

1—The co-operation of the American government.

2—The co-operation of the American Congress; and,

3—The goodwill of the American people.

The first of these Sir George expressed himself as believing already assured. The second and third, however, seemed to him to present certain difficulties, but which might be overcome if the nations of Europe would go about it in the right way. And, in his opinion, the first step is for the old world to stand by the principles for which the war was fought.

The granting of "a generous measure of home rule for Ireland" is one of the suggestions he made to his own country.

"SPIRIT OF 14 POINTS."

"The entente governments," he said, "must adopt a policy of justice and reconciliation and carry out not merely, but the spirit of the fourteen points. Great Britain in particular should stand firmly and strongly for the principles for which the war was fought, and upon which the peace was supposed to be based.

"Probably the grant of a generous measure of home rule to Ireland without further delay would do much immediate good in the present temper of the British people. But one such act would be useless."

Sir George made it plain that nothing short of a real application of the principles upon which the peace was supposed to be based would have the desired effect of keeping the United States interested in Europe.

"The active participation of the American government and Congress is absolutely essential," Paish reported, "and every reasonable measure must be taken by the people and the statesmen of Europe to win the goodwill not only of the American government and Congress but of the American people."

While he declared he had been given "assurance from the highest sources that officials and financial America will co-operate to put the (billion-dollar League of Nations revolving fund) plan through, in the opinion of the British financiers something more is needed.

"MUST CREATE ATMOSPHERE."

"Indeed," he declared, "an atmosphere must be created in America which will be even more enthusiastic than was the atmosphere of enthusiasm created there during the war, as it is much more difficult to raise money in peace than in war."

Paish's plan, when it became known through the International News Service, was variously commented upon at the Capitol and in official circles here.

Senator Jones, Republican, of the State of Washington, said: "I would not vote for the measure until I know beforehand that it was not going to be used by England to gain commercial advantage over this country."

Republican Leader Mondell said he was "opposed to further European loans if they involved bond issues and taxes. As to the credit arrangements, I am not prepared to say."

"Apparently," declared Henry T. Rainey, Democrat, of Illinois, member of the Ways and Means Committee, "the plan is a matter of credit. Possibly $500,000,000 used as a revolving fund could do it. It may be the necessary thing to do, the best and only way to meet conditions."

CHAUFFEUR CONFESSES TO STRANGLING WOMAN

Rochester, N. Y., April 8.—Broken down and overwhelmed by a guilty fear, Antonio Mangiavillano, thirty-four, a chauffeur, confessed to the murder of Mrs. Frances De Lorme, twenty-eight, whose frozen body was found in a vacant lot here.

Admitting that he had been meeting the woman for more than two years, Mangiavillano told District Attorney William F. Love and Detective Captain William H. Whaley that he had choked her to death because she had upbraided him with showing attention to other American women.

How to Keep Baby Smiling and Well

See that the daily functions are regular and normal

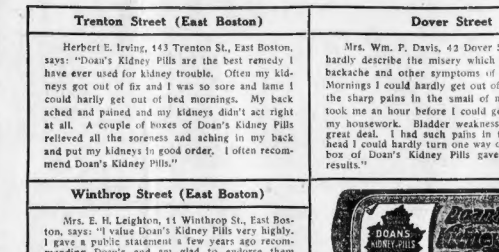
YOU can't expect the little ones to be happy and playful when the head feels dull and the stomach bloated. The normal habit of children is to be happy and when you notice them cross and fretful you will usually find constipation is responsible.

Perhaps they have missed that daily function so necessary to comfort and health. Look at the tongue and see if the breath is bad. Watch for belching. These are the tell-tale symptoms of constipation. Tonight give a little of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which you can buy at any drug store, and it will act in the morning and the troublesome symptoms promptly disappear.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin. Unlike the harsher purgatives it acts gently and without griping so that while grownups can use it freely it can also be given to a tiny baby with perfect safety. Thousands of American families would not think of being without a bottle in the house for the emergency arises almost daily when it is needed.

In spite of the fact that Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the largest selling liquid laxative in the world, there being over 6 million bottles sold each year, many who need its benefits have not yet used it. If you have not, send your name and address for a free trial bottle to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 511 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.

Spring Find You Weak and Worn?



HAS Winter left you dull, tired; all worn out? Do you have a constant backache, with headaches, too, dizzy spells, sharp, shooting pains and some annoying kidney irregularity? Does Spring find you feeling older, slower than you should? From a health standpoint it has been a trying winter. The influenza and grip epidemics have left thousands with weak kidneys and failing strength. Now comes Spring with its own special burdens of impure blood to impose a still greater burden on the overworked kidneys. Don't wait for some serious kidney trouble to develop. Get back your health and keep it. For quick relief get plenty of rest, sleep and exercise, and help the weakened kidneys with Doan's Kidney Pills. Doan's have helped thousands and should help you. Ask your neighbor!

These are Boston Cases:

Trenton Street (East Boston)

Herbert E. Irving, 143 Trenton St., East Boston, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills are the best remedy I have ever used for kidney trouble. Often my kidneys got out of fix and I was so sore and lame I could hardly get out of bed mornings. My back ached and pained and my kidneys didn't act right at all. A couple of boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills relieved all the soreness and aching in my back and put my kidneys in good order. I often recommend Doan's Kidney Pills."

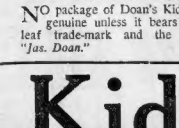
Winthrop Street (East Boston)

Mrs. E. H. Leighton, 11 Winthrop St., East Boston, says: "I value Doan's Kidney Pills very highly. I gave a public statement a few years ago recommending Doan's and am glad to endorse them again at this time. Whenever I feel that my kidneys need strengthening, I use Doan's Kidney Pills and feel better after taking them." (Statement given July 24, 1914.)

On February 6, 1919, Mrs. Leighton added: "Doan's Kidney Pills have certainly proven their value to me and I can't say too much for them. I know they are perfectly reliable and will do what is claimed for them."

Dover Street

Mrs. Wm. P. Davis, 42 Dover St., says: "I can hardly describe the misery which I suffered from backache and other symptoms of kidney trouble. Mornings I could hardly get out of bed because of the sharp pains in the small of my back, and it took me an hour before I could get around to do my housework. Bladder weakness bothered me a great deal. I had such pains in the back of my head I could hardly turn one way or another. One box of Doan's Kidney Pills gave me wonderful results."



NO package of Doan's Kidney Pills is genuine unless it bears the maple-leaf trade-mark and the signature—"Jas. Doan."

Fourth Street (South Boston)

Adam Ott, proprietor of wagon and auto repair shop, 646 E. Fourth St., South Boston, says: "My back often ached, and I was stiff and lame. Colds made the trouble worse, and my kidneys distressed me by their irregular action, too. On the advice of a friend, I used Doan's Kidney Pills, and they strengthened my back and kidneys, removed the stiffness in my limbs and back and made me feel better in very way."

"K" Street (South Boston)

George Lee, 237 K St., South Boston, says: "Whenever I overdid or lifted anything heavy I suffered from an attack of backache and kidney trouble. At such times I would have a stiffness and lameness in my back and would feel badly all over. I would have to get up nights to pass the kidney secretions, which were always scanty and contained sediment. I also would have dull pains in the back of my head and spells of dizziness. Doan's Kidney Pills at such times always straightened me up in fine shape."

SENATE PROBES SHOE PRICES

Facts Gathered by Sub-Committee Indicate Widespread Profiteering

Washington, April 8.—An investigation of the prevailing high prices of boots and shoes is to be made by a sub-committee of the Senate Committee on Manufactures under the authorization of a resolution passed by the Senate. The investigation is to be started tomorrow.

Facts already gathered by members of the committee indicate a widespread course of profiteering by the shoe manufacturers. The committee aimed to conduct the inquiry consists of Senators Kenyon, McCumber, Gronna, Reed and Jones, of New Mexico.

In view of the fact that one of the Senators on the committee was recently asked to pay $12 for a pair of shoes which he subsequently learned were sold to the retailer by the manufacturer for $4, it is not believed the committee will have any difficulty in probing into all the facts regarding the high prices of shoe leather.

NORTH ADAMS POLICE WIN FIGHT FOR $5 INCREASE

North Adams, April 8.—After having had demands for increased pay turned down twice, members of the local police department, by persistently presenting petitions to the City Council, have at last had their request for a $5 a day salary granted by unanimous vote. The chief of the department was voted $2,400 a year and the two captains will each receive $2,000 a year.

VICE SQUAD TOLD TO 'KNOCK OFF'

Navy Probers Stopped for Fear They "Would Hang State of Rhode Island"

New York, April 8. — The Naval Board of Inquiry investigating methods employed by the anti-vice squad at Newport, R. I., was told that the squad had been ordered to "knock off" or it would "hang the State of Rhode Island."

This testimony was given by Erwin Arnold, the squad's commander. The order, he said, had been issued by Lieutenant Commander Foster, president of the court named by Rear Admiral Wood, to combat the anti-vice crusade, and had been transmitted to him by Ensign William H. Drury, judge advocate of the court.

Arnold said that more than 100 cases were brought under suspicion, and the reports of these cases were taken by Arnold to Washington and turned over to Franklin D. Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy. Arnold said conditions at that time were so bad in Newport that the members of the squad were anxious to go on with the work in order to protect the enlisted personnel.

The work was continued until April 17, 1919, when Arnold said he received orders from Drury to "knock off" at investigations.

Hall, Gaby the Second!

That is what Miss Ruth Irving's friends call her.

"Look here, upon this picture, and on this"—can you tell them apart? The charming "double" of the late lamented Gaby Deslys is a Boston girl by adoption, hailing from California, the native heath of movie stars. And that is what Miss Irving aspires to be. She has already appeared on the screen, and has been prominent locally in amateur theatricals. She already has an appointment with a prominent producer, and if she is not engaged as a second "Gaby," her friends are confident that she will secure an engagement on the merits of her own pulchritude.

Miss Irving lives in Brookline, where she is well known for her dramatic abilities.

MODERN GIRLS INDEPENDENT

Match-Making Mothers Are Dethroned in the British Isles

London, April 8.—The classic English mother of the old novels we used to read, who schemed and plotted and made "good matches" for her daughters, has been dethroned.

This is the verdict which rises from copious discussions of the "modern girl," which has been started here by Father Bernard Vaughan. The Reverend Father thinks modernity and the spirit of independence may have been carried too far.

A lot of mothers agree with him.

The daughters have been interviewed also, and they admit that they are almost as independent as their brothers. Moreover they do not contemplate giving up the war-won freedom.

Almost unanimously these 1920 girls, in their late teens, cannot conceive of the possibility of mother's word carrying any weight in the question of future husbands.

Lady Cooper, Lady Mayoress, comes joyfully to their defence. Mothers are not too lax in their authority, she declares. The modern girl, she claims, is free, but splendid.

"Let the girls have their own way and enjoy themselves," says Lady Cooper.

Berlin Woman Proud of 21 Children

Berlin, April 8.—The old woman of nursery fame who lived in a shoe must look to her laurels. She has a rival. Frau Navocany is her name, and she lives in a three-roomed apartment in the east end of Berlin with no fewer than twenty-one children.

Frau Navocany, who is of Polish origin, is a young-looking woman of thirty-eight.

"Yes," she said, when I called on her, "I am the mother of Berlin's largest family. I don't look it? Well, I think being always surrounded by children keeps one young. You see, my eldest are only sixteen."

"Are" said I, not understanding.

"Triplets," replied the lady; "my family comprises three sets of triplets and four of twins. Then I have four others alive, but I have unfortunately lost six. Otherwise, my family would number twenty-seven. Come and see how we live."

How to Have Red Lips!

The girl with red lips and pink cheeks may be thankful, for both denote health vigorous, forceful, magnetic health, and while it may be impossible for some to attain owing to morbid states of health, yet a vast majority of seemingly healthy young women and men are almost colorless, because of a lack of red blood corpuscles. When the blood is impoverished and enriched with these red corpuscles, the weight increases and a beautiful tint appears on the cheeks, while the lips assume a healthy red color. Many physicians and beauty doctors prescribe these grain hypo-phosphate tablets which are said to invariably increase the red blood corpuscles after a few weeks' treatment lasting several months. The secret of obtaining and retaining health also increases rapidly. The best apothecary shops supply this tablet in sealed packages.—Advertisement.

PEACE RESOLVE STIRS DEBATE

Penrose Warns of Delay and Flood Fights Move as Menace to Nation

By International News Service.

Washington, April 8.—The House of Representatives plunged into debate on the question of peace today. The Porter resolution, declaring a state of peace with Germany, was under discussion.

Chairman Porter of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, author of the resolution, warned of the dangers to the country through delay in declaring peace with Germany. He contended that Congress had authority to declare the existence of a state of peace, although it could not enter upon treaty making or negotiations leading to that end.

He argued that if Congress were denied that power it would be "within the right of an obstinate President of rose loving power, to retain his office indefinitely "as a dictator" by holding together his war machine and refusing to accept any modifications in peace treaties that the Senate might demand. He pointed out that with the present deadlock between the President and the Senate peace with Germany could be delayed indefinitely.

Representative Flood of Virginia, ranking Democratic member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee and chief defender of the President, charged the Republican leaders with playing partisan politics with the peace issue in an effort to discredit President Wilson. He asserted they were misrepresenting the President's position in connection with the matter. He warned them that they were "playing with a most dangerous and delicate situation" when they attempted illegally and unconstitutionally to encroach upon the treaty-making powers.

The pending resolution, Flood asserted, should it be passed by Congress and become the law, would make the United States the ally of Germany against Great Britain, France and Italy, and lead this country into a position whereby, by arms, it would have to assist Germany.

Under the resolution, he maintained this country would have lost all chances for reparation from Germany for the great damages she had done, including the loss of life and property in the sinking of the Lusitania.

YIELD OF WHEAT TO BE CUT

Crop Estimates Show Big Falling off in Probable Production in U. S.

By International News Service.

Washington, April 8.—The crop reporting board of the bureau of crop estimates, Department of Agriculture, makes the following estimates from reports of its correspondents and agents: The average condition of Winter wheat on April 1 was 77.6 per cent. of normal, against 99.8 on April 1, 1919, 78.6 on April 1, 1918, and 84.1, the average condition for the past ten years on April 1.

There was a decline in condition from December 1, 1919, to April 1, 1920, of 8.6 points, as compared with an average decline in the past ten years of 5.4 points between these dates.

Upon the assumption of average abandonment of acreage and average influence on the crop to harvest, condition April 1 forecasts a production of about 452,617,000 bushels, which compares with 731,626,000 bushels, the estimated production in 1919, and 665,099,000 in 1918.

The average condition of rye on April 1 was 86.8 per cent. of a normal, against 90.6 upon April 1, 1919; 85.8 on April 1, 1918, and 89.6 the average condition for the past ten years on April 1.

The condition of rye forecasts a production of approximately 75,841,000 bushels. Last year's estimated production was 88,475,000 bushels, the 1918 crop 91,041,000 and the average of the preceding five years 59,067,000 bushels.

DORCHESTER MAN WINS FIGHT FOR TENEMENT

A victory for Antonio del Signore, tenant at No. 33 Westville street, Dorchester, was scored today when Judge Churchill, in the Dorchester Court, refused to order him to vacate the premises he now occupies. Signore was served with a writ of ejectment by Attorney William T. Schell, for John C. Taylor, trustee of the property, and the $42 demanded. The reason was non-payment of rent. Judge Churchill ruled that proper notice had not been given Signore.

BIG PARADE TO MARK THE END OF IRISH BOND DRIVE IN BOSTON

A parade of Irish and kindred societies, in which women will appear dressed in the colors of the Irish Republic, will mark the closing of the bond certificate drive in Boston. It is hoped to have at least 25,000 persons in the line of march. No date has yet been set for the demonstration, plans for which are being formed by State President John F. Harrigan of the Friends of Irish Freedom and Patrick J. Moynihan, director of the American Commission on Irish Independence in New England.

DE VALERA MAY LEAD.

Provisional plans for the parade include the presentation of different periods of Irish history by floats, military manoeuvres in which world war veterans will take part, singing of patriotic songs of America and Ireland by a mixed chorus of 100 voices, and the possible presence at the head of the line of President Eamon De Valera of the Irish Republic.

The parade is planned to be one of the most picturesque as well as one of the largest demonstrations of its kind ever held in this city.

The announced purpose of the parade is to protest against England's continued rule over Ireland and to stimulate interest among American citizens in behalf of recognition of the Irish Republic. Representatives of the Central Council of Irish County Associations, of which John J. Foley is president, favor holding the parade on Patriots' Day, April 19.

Parades and protest meetings are also planned to be held in other cities and towns. Worcester contemplates holding a parade April 19.

Irish bond certificates will be sold tonight at the thirteenth annual reunion of the Tipperary Association in Hibernian Hall, No. 214 Dudley street, Roxbury.

SPRING COLDS ATTACK THOSE WHO ARE WEAK AND RUN DOWN

Every-Day Danger Threatens Everybody Whose Resisting Power is Low

People who have become weak and run-down during the winter either from overwork or following grip or other serious illness are in special danger during the trying days of early spring. The weakened system is wide open to attacks of disease and new resisting power must be built up without delay.

For this purpose no better tonic food medicine can be used than Father John's Medicine because the pure, nourishing elements of which it is made rebuild health and strength. A doctor's prescription in use more than sixty years.—Father John's Medicine is guaranteed free from alcohol or any dangerous drugs. The wholesome, strength-building food which it contains is easily taken up by the system and it gives the very resisting power so greatly needed at this time.—Advertisement.

Women say La-may stays on better than any other face powder.

Up to the present time it has been almost impossible to get a face powder to stay on the face longer than it takes to put it on. You powder your nose nicely, and the first gust of wind or the first puff of your handkerchief and away goes the powder, leaving your nose shiny and conspicuous, probably just at the very moment when you would give anything to appear at your best. A specialist has at last perfected a pure powder that really stays on; that stays on until you wash it off. It does not contain white lead or starchy rice powder to make it stay on. This improved formula contains a medicinal powder doctors prescribe to improve the complexion. In fact, this powder helps to prevent and reduce enlarged pores and irritations. It is also astringent, discouraging flabbiness, crow's feet and wrinkles. This unusual powder is called La-may (French, Poudre L'Ame). Because La-may is pure and because it stays on so well it is already used by over a million American women. All dealers carry the large sixty-cent box, and many dealers also carry the generous thirty-cent size. When you use this harmless powder and see how beautifully it improves your complexion you will understand why La-may so quickly became the most popular beautifier powder sold in New York. We will give you five thousand dollars if you can buy a better face powder anywhere at any price. Herbert Rose Stone, 16 East 16th St., New York.

STOCK 'WOLVES' SAFE FOR YEAR

Senate's Action on Allen Bill Frees Dealers in Worthless Issues from Prosecution

Stock brokers who deal in worthless securities seem to be free from investigation and prosecution, for a year at least.

The Senate did it.

Attorney-General J. Weston Allen, declaring that the State is practically without laws to protect the investor from spoliation by the scheming salesman, asked the Legislature to pass a bill which would give the chief law officer of the State complete authority to investigate and prosecute.

Acting upon his request, the House voted unanimously to admit his bill for consideration, for debate and for action.

The Senate would not even admit it.

OPPONENTS OF MEASURE.

The vote for admission was twenty-three to ten, but under the rules a four-fifths vote was necessary.

The ten who voted "No" follow:

Allen, Norwood, Butler, Lawrence, Church, Plymouth; Cooke, Worcester; Dahlborg, Brockton; Hardy, Fitchburg; President McKnight, Malden, Fall River, Nason, Haverhill, and Pearson of Lowell.

President McKnight, identified with a long and imposing string of trust companies, personally took the floor of the Senate and asked the Senate not to admit the bill, not even for discussion. He said it was unconstitutional and that nine out of ten Senators would vote against it.

Not one of the members of the Senate took occasion to tell him that the merits or defects of the bill were not under consideration; that the only question involved was of whether the Senate would admit it; that, once admitted, its defects, if it had any, could be eliminated, and that the law officer of the State said he needs law to protect the public.

UNNECESSARY, REED CLAIMS.

Senator Silas D. Reed of Taunton did say that the Attorney-General was being denied the right to be heard, and that "it is evident that members of the Senate are exerting their influence to block this very necessary legislation."

Senator Reed held aloft a big bunch of bills that have been admitted this year under suspension of the rules and then sat down with the look on the face of a man who realizes that a good cause was going on the rocks.

President McKnight introduced a bill to prohibit the advertising of that class of stocks until the companies have filed statements of their properties with the Commissioner of Corporations. It is intended to "perfect" the law under which Allen is now prosecuting.

ENTHUSIASTIC

Miss Emma Morrill, 31 Clarendon street, Boston, is enthusiastic. She says: "Years ago I had stomach trouble, was overburdened with fat and was nervous. I was fifty years old. My nerves were gone and with the inditestion, obesity and nerve exhaustion I was about tired of living. A friend told me of the Osmo-Chemic Physicians. I had them treat me and they made me well again. About a year ago small lumps appeared on my nose and cheek. I consulted a physician and he said they were malignant and cut them out. They reappeared and took my troubles to the Osmo-Chemic Physicians and they removed the lumps with their wonderful light treatment, without pain or any inconvenience to me. They do some wonderful things."

The wonderful power of the X-RAY TREATMENT is proved by the fact that they are accomplishing wonderful cures in diseases of every description—CATARRH, DEAFNESS, BRONCHITIS, STOMACH DISEASE, NERVOUS DISORDERS, SKIN DISEASE, RHEUMATISM, WARTS, MOLES, FACIAL BLEMISHES, ETC.

She Gained 33 Pounds

Among the many interesting cases of worn quiet and increase in weight credited to the aid of Nitro-Phosphate is that of Mrs. Rosa Harris who was thin and nervous when she began, weighing 101 pounds. While using Nitro-Phosphate faithfully, she gradually acquired healthy flesh until she had reached 134 pounds, a desirable weight for her. The improvement in Mrs. Harris' appearance was so great, that friends of hers were amazed. The pictures hereto attached show the delightful weight increase. Many other cases!

Nitro-Phosphate aids in overcoming many cases of nervousness, brain or mind fatigue, tendency to hysteria, melancholy or breakdown, sleeplessness, lack of self control, nervous spells. Gain new energy and inspiration!

This whole publication could be filled with statements of those who tell of the efficiency of Nitro-Phosphate in overcoming nervousness, weakness and allied troubles, and in adding pounds of weight—healthy flesh—healthily. Is not, be sure!

Dandruff Soon Ruins the Hair

Girls—if you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon, apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find too that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.—Advertisement

Alarm Clocks End Colic Among Hopi Papooses

Sub-debs in Hopi land, Northern Arizona. Fashion dictates this coiffure for unmarried girls, while the acquisition of a husband sanctions braids.

Nine alarm clocks, imported from Boston to regulate babies' feedings, have revolutionized life among the Hopi Indians in Arizona. It began when a score of papooses, doubled up with colic, were brought to the Baptist mission.

The woman in charge inquired into Hopi baby diet and learned to her horror that the papooses got whatever was handy whenever they howled for it. One six-months-old infant owed its "tummyache" to a dinner of green corn. A baby clinic was started and the clocks were imported. The following Sunday, when Tommy, a baby addicted to raw beef, lifted up his voice in church, the mother took a look at a clock, tickling away on the floor, and then cuffed Tommy's ears. It still lacked half an hour of feeding time for both the babies, but lordly rules of the reservation feel the change. The squaws, suddenly made aware of the importance of time, are prodding them into unwilling feats of punctuality and industry.

PLACE EMBARGO ON FREIGHT

Sailings Cancelled by Three Steamship Lines Entering Boston

An embargo on all freight routed through this port by the Ocean Steamship Company, the Metropolitan Line to New York or the Clyde Line has been placed by the railroads, as a result of the strike of 1,800 coastwise longshoremen, which is still unsettled.

Sailings on all three lines have been suspended and their fleet of steamers is tied up at the docks.

With the steamship companies insistent that the demands of the longshoremen cannot be met under present conditions, the latter have reiterated their determination to prolong the strike until a settlement is made.

WOMEN HYSTERICAL IN RACING RESORT RAID

New York, April 8.—As the result of a raid on an apartment in West Forty-eighth street, where fashionably-dressed women eagerly awaited word by telephone from races on which they had wagers, Louis Graham, aged forty-two, and William Bennett, aged forty-one, were held in $500 bail for examination next Monday. Detectives said that their entrance caused several women to become hysterical. They contented themselves with taking the names of those present.

ESTABLISHED 1851

Dear Mrs. Easter Bride:

YOU are about to enter a new life, and whatever that life is to be rests with you. Before this, other people have fashioned your life for you. The friends you made, the things you did, the kind of home you had, depended largely upon your parents. Now you are to make a change, meet new friends, to enter upon a new kind of life, and, most important of all, to create a home for yourself.

Are you going to enter upon this big, important task of home-building carelessly, or are you going to choose everything that goes into the building in such a way that it will express your good taste, your personality and your ideals? Your home should be the very best and finest place in the world to you. Every picture, every bit of lace and every piece of furniture should mean something.

"Our Credit Plan Is Different"

Open Thursday and Saturday Evenings

Because we understand the importance of choosing the right things, and because we are interested in your future happiness, we can give you the kind of service you need.

Come in and see us, Mrs. Easter Bride. We can give you not only all the time you need in choosing, but what is equally important, all the time you need in paying. And we guarantee our prices are lower than you will find at any furniture store in Boston.

Your money will buy more here than elsewhere—and you can make payments weekly or monthly for a year or longer. Spreading the payments over a period makes it possible for you to furnish your home more completely at the start.

No matter where you live in New England, you can open an account from $5 to $5,000. We pay the freight.

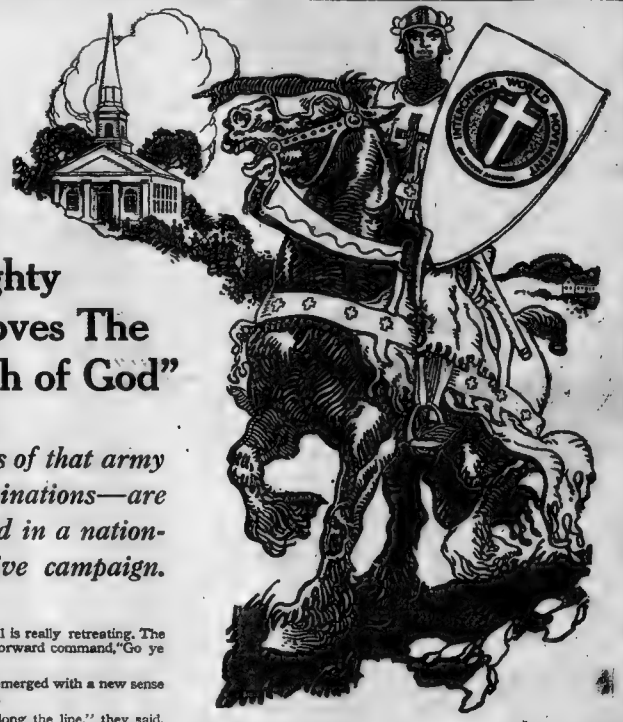
COAL PRICES BOOSTED ON BIDS FOR NAVY

Washington, April 8.—Prices ranging from 9 cents to $1.42 a ton higher than the recent fixed prices of the government are asked by bituminous and anthracite coal producers on bids submitted to the Navy Department on part of the supply needed next year



"Like a Mighty Army Moves The Church of God"

Thirty divisions of that army —thirty denominations—are moving forward in a nation-wide cooperative campaign.

THE army that stands still is really retreating. The Master's command was a forward command, "Go ye into all the World."

Out of the war the churches emerged with a new sense of the urgency of that command.

"We must move forward all along the line," they said, and each denomination planned its own "Forward Movement" to deepen the spiritual life of its members and equip itself with money and power.

Then came the greater thought, "It is not enough for us to go forward. We must be sure that there is no duplication of effort; that cooperation prevails; that every man and dollar does its utmost in service.

"We must go forward together."

So the Interchurch World Movement was formed—a clearing house through which thirty denominations without sacrificing their identity in any way—can cooperate in the service of Jesus Christ.

FOR MORE than a year trained experts have been at work making a scientific survey of the whole world, and of America county by county.

The churches, for the first time in their history, have the full facts.

They know where America is overchurched and where underchurched.

They know exactly how they can cooperate in the foreign mission fields to produce the largest results in international education, international health and international good-will.

No business man can study that survey without being impressed by the accuracy and courage with which the task has been approached.

ON THE basis of the survey, the cooperating denominations will unite in a simultaneous financial campaign in the week of April 25th.

The amounts asked for are large in the aggregate; they are small when divided among the church members of the nation—smaller still when you count the whole number of men and women who love America.

The average contribution to the church today is less than three cents per member per day. Think of it. Yet if each person who loves and believes in America will increase his contribution by only a few dollars, the whole amount will be easily subscribed.

Will you do your share for a better America and a better world? Your chance to help is coming in the week of April 25th.

SALE OF SHIPS SAFEGUARDED

Senator McNary Not Alarmed by Board's Call to Wall Street

By CHARLES L. McNARY,
Senator from Oregon.

Washington, April 8.—I am not at all alarmed by the call of finance to part with the unfortunate advertising the shipping Board in the method of disposal of our fleet of merchant ships. I cannot see any danger in this conference for already we have demonstrated three points toward the betterment of the difficulty.

Mr. Hoard was issued an ultimatum against the sale of ships for less than their worth. A resolution was introduced in the Senate arraigning for investigation and yet has not been acted on. A vote was taken in the Senate that no disposition of sale of the German ships could be transacted until Congress should shape a shipping policy.

I feel that we can rest secure on this arrangement and that it can be repeated in the event that there is a disposition on the part of the board to sell the remaining vessels at a figure below their worth. I hope also that Congress will determine upon its policy of government ownership when the time arrives for this decision.

By ARTHUR CAPPER,
Senator From Kansas.

I am less much surprised at the move Admiral Benson is making for the Shipping Board. Just why these ships are not should be invited to auction when the board is something I cannot understand.

When people with private interests should determine what the board should do when Congress has been at work for months to adjust this enterprise is something of a puzzle to me. Big business men are directly interested and are not likely to view the broad subject of this industry from an unselfish standpoint. Congress is the body that should pass upon the question without the interference of Wall Street. There are indications that Great Britain and other nations are anxious to buy. Congress get out of the shipping business

'Dead' Alaskan Halts Disposal of Estate

Seattle, Wash., April 8.—Just as friends of John Nelsen, Alaska miner, were busy with arrangements to administer his estate and send to one mother in Denmark money that has lain on deposit in a bank here for two years, proceedings were halted by receipt of word from Nielsen himself that he is not dead and that he is on his way to Seattle.

In 1917 Nielsen was due to arrive here on a certain steamship but did not show up. His friends were unable to find any trace of him and concluded he was dead. Steps were taken to dispose of the $2,500 which he had on deposit in a bank here.

In the letter which halted the administration proceedings Nielsen explained that he had been taken prisoner by the Germans and that he had been released only a few months ago. He is now on his way to Seattle.

ARRESTED AFTER DIVORCE TRIAL

Husband Contesting Wife's Suit Taken as Deserter from United States Navy

Appearing in court here today as a witness in behalf of his wife in her action for divorce, Mrs. Ida Gagnon, accused Peter Gagnon, a Cambridge seamstress, of desertion from the United States naval authorities, charged with the desertion.

The woman alleges that she has been unable to see her husband and left without support. She identified postcards, one of which was signed, "Your son, Peter's sweetheart, Ida," as the ones she found in her husband's bag.

The further appearance in court of Gagnon to face his wife's suit depends upon the sufferance of the naval officials.

THIRTY SPRINGFIELD TEACHERS RESIGN

Springfield, April 8.—Thirty school teachers have resigned thus far this year to become housewives, Miss Ella Flagg Young, superintendent of schools announced today. Miss Young said the resignations are not due to any dissatisfaction with salaries paid teachers.

Fighting Hunger

Hunger is never more than a few days away from the American people.

The coal strike showed us what a narrow margin the country goes on, even in a non-perishable necessity which can be stored.

Swift & Company is engaged in the business of fighting hunger.

From coast to coast, from the Great Lakes to the Gulf, the lines of defense are drawn—packing plants at strategic points; branch houses in four hundred towns and cities; hundreds of car routes; thousands of refrigerator cars; tens of thousands of loyal men and women expert in their work.

Day by day, hour by hour ceaselessly, this fight, your fight, goes on. Yet so smoothly, surely and victoriously that you, unaware how close hunger always is, are as certain each night of tomorrow's meat as you are of tomorrow's sun.

And so economically is this done that the cost to you for this service is less than three cents a pound of meat sold. The profit shared in by more than 30,000 shareholders whose money makes the victory possible is only a fraction of a cent a pound on all products.

If hunger did not make it necessary for us to fight this fight in the best possible way for all concerned, the competition of hundreds of other packers, large and small, would compel us.

Battling Al Thomas the scrapping colored boxer has put many a fistic aspirant to sleep, his most recent victim being Johnny Veto whom he put away in three rounds last week at this club. Both Muggsy and Thomas are hard hitters and this bout is one that will draw the fans from a long distance to witness.

The semi-final will be an eight-round lightweight battle between Jo Brennan, the Dublin Fireman of Charlestown and Jack Mulvey, the fighting son of Boston Brennan knocked Jack O'Donnell of Roxbury out cold in one round and he feels confident that he will duplicate the feat among the fighting police-

Schang Is Champion Holdout; Demands $8,000 Salary Boost

The champion holdout of the year is Wally Schang, the Red Sox catcher.

From his home in Philadelphia, Schang has issued a statement that he had not signed with the Boston club, because his terms had not been met by President Harry Frazee.

No wonder Frazee hasn't met them, Schang, who last season signed a two-year contract, calling for $4,500 per season has "shiekjacked" Frazee for a salary of $12,500.

An 8,000 raise, eh, hey! And Frazee has Schang under contract, too.

BROWN WINS ON FOUL FROM JOHNNY DOWNES

Harry "Kid" Brown of Philadelphia was declared a winner on a foul over Johnny Downes in the eighth round of the main bout at the Grand Opera House. Up to then Downes had had the advantage. He was in rare form and fought rings around his opponent in every frame except the seventh, when Brown reversed conditions and put the South Boston man on the defensive.

Young Brown and Gerard Gianel of Lawrence fought a fast eight-round draw. Young Turnquist defeated Young Ginley in one round, and Young Fay and Young Williams fought a six-round draw.

RED SOX AND GIANTS RESUME SERIES AFTER ONE DAY'S LAYOFF

BUFFALO IS BEATEN, 9 TO 1

Barrow Clan Gives Bisons Artistic Lacing Before Enthusiastic Raleigh Audience

Norfolk, Va., April 8.—The Red Sox and Yankees were ready to resume their interleague fuss here today after being apart for the matter of twenty-four hours or so, the said time being improved by the clan of Barrow in administering an artistic trimming to George Wiltse's Buffalo Internationals, 9 to 1, at Raleigh, N. C.

The minor leaguers were outclassed in every department of the game by the Red Sox, but, best of all, Pitcher Sam Jones breezed through the whole nine innings just as though it were mid-Summer instead of Winter lingering in the lap of Spring. The showing of Jones was very encouraging to Barrow, who now knows that at least one of his first string pitchers is capable of going the full distance whenever needs be.

Hoyt, too, is another flinger who is in shape right now to travel at top speed in a regular championship contest, and Harper and Russell are not far off form. So, on the whole, the Red Sox pitching problem is far from being as dark as it seemed a few weeks ago.

Perhaps it is just as well that the Red Sox are not looking for recruits in the International League, as outside of Frank Gilhooley and a pitcher named Heitman, the Buffalo team exhibited nothing which would justify the transfer of even a second hand bat bag.

For today's fray Manager Barrow had both Hoyt and Russell warming up while McInaw was ready to send shuffling Phil Douglass to the peak. Whoever Barrow starts will be sent the whole route, unless, of course, the Giants get too busy with their bats, in which event one of the young hurlers will be hurried in as relief.

INTERCLASS TRACK MEET AT UNIVERSITY HEIGHTS

Jack Ryder will stage an interclass track meet at University Heights Monday. He expects that over fifty per cent of the student body will participate in the games and has arranged an attractive field. He will pick the six-man relay to win the Heights and teams from each of the four classes will compete Monday. The first man on the six-man relay is to run 440 yards, the next four 220 and the anchor man 440.

Ryder will run off the events in the following order: 100-yard dash, 1-mile run, 120-yard high hurdles, 220-yard dash, 880-yard run, 440-yard run and 220-yard low hurdles. The field men will compete in the running high jump, running broad and standing broad jumps, hammer and discus.

EXPECT MANY ENTRANTS IN LEGION POST RACE

The annual ten-mile run of the Cathedral Y. M. C. A. will be held on Saturday, April 10. Thirty-five entries were received last Saturday, and about seventy-five athletes are expected to face the starter Saturday. With James Henigan and Fred Faller entered the time should be near the record if not better.

Applications for entry may be made to Dennis J. Foley, No. 436 Dudley street, Roxbury, Mass.

BEST TIGERS CAN GET IS TIE

Detroit Must Win Today and Tomorrow to Even Up With Braves

Clarksburg, W. Va., April 8.—Rabbit Maranville has had a trial since the roaring ball clubs invaded this town. The Braves had a short stop here—stopped overnight, because the Arctic gales made the game as scheduled out of the question, and because the contest hooked for today as Pinkins was called off when the experts there discovered their orchards will be buried under one foot of snow. So the Clarksburg authorities decided to hold the entourage, whatever that is, over for twenty-four hours and have a game. There was no snow present, except on the distant peaks of the Virginia mountains, and the early thermometer had it by a comfortable than it has been for the past several days.

The teams leave tonight and rattle on to Cumberland, Md., where the ultimate clash of the series is scheduled. Thence the Braves go to Lancaster and play Saturday, while the Tigers hit the trail for Indianapolis.

Best Detroit Can Get Is Even Break

The series has been a howling success from the standpoint of G. T. Stallings and his weary man. Even if the two remaining games are played and lost, the best, the hardest hitting outfit in the American League can get out of the deal is an even break. Boston has won six and Detroit four thus far, and the Braves have been as impressive in victory as have the enemy.

This three-day lay-off hasn't helped the pitching arms at all, but as the thing is generally prevalent in the big leagues, the Boston director isn't bothered greatly. His regular flingers had worked in to fine shape before Winter returned, and he figures they will be as good as ever when weather warm enough for baseball comes across the horizon.

Most of the athletes napped at the chance to grab off a regular night's sleep, and the hotels here were rushed while the too familiar Pullmans stood in the yard through the night tenantless except for the more or less faithful porters. As there are only three more green curtained evenings in front, the morale, as they call it, of the tourists is picking up a bit.

Gowdy Chock Full of Enthusiasm

The past three days of idleness have wrecked three perfectly good guarantees, and will prevent the clubs from getting off the wrong side of the ledger for Spring training. However, that's a gamble anyhow.

Buzz-Saw Action at Mechanics Tonight

The three matches that make up the international wrestling carnival in Mechanics Building tonight have created no end of interest. Jimmy Londos, about the speediest of all the heavyweight wrestlers, declared that no matter what tactics Mavaki employs he will set a pace that will make his Jap opponent dizzy. The winner of this match may meet Earl Caddock on April 19 in Boston. Strangler Lewis, again in line for the world's championship, is in fine form for his match with Orlando, the star Swedish heavyweight. The clash between Cyclone Burns and Henri Varini, the Belgian, will round out the program.

and even B. M. Hapgood hasn't omitted a screech

Henry Gowd who left Sunday for a flying visit to his home in Columbus, has returned and will catch at least one more game before the curtain rolls up next Wednesday. Henry, like the rest of the Braves, has discovered a new enthusiasm for the illustrious pastime, and is likely to show a whole lot of real catching this Spring.

When you have that spirit, you have something to start with, in the opinion of Manager Stallings. Look's like a big year.

VALPARAISO COLLEGE SURE TO PLAY HARVARD

Valparaiso will retain the October 9 date on the Harvard football schedule. At Cambridge word has been received that the Indians team is one of the strongest in that section. It was reported recently that Valparaiso was defeated by the Notre Dame freshmen instead of the varsity, as was their claim. Word from the West, however, is to the effect that the Indiana team will average 200 pounds next Fall and that the entire eleven regulars are to return to college.

Golfed Out of Home, Pinehurst's Latest

Pinehurst, N. C., April 8.—The log cabin in the woods near the tenth fairway of the championship course here is tenantless today in a friendly match Major A. Fillet Hanney of the Greenwich Country Club hooked his drive in the general direction of the cabin. The ball, driven with a mighty stroke, soared many feet and then shot through the open door of the cabin. It careened from wall to wall, soared the pickaninnies into fits, bounced off the wooly head of the father of the family without injury to itself or the head, knocked dishes off the table and passed out through the rear door. Hanney reached the green easily on his next shot.

This morning the family moved out.

WILSON WINNER OVER REID

Charlestown Boxer Fights in Cool Style and Easily Offsets Sailor's Aggressiveness

Johnny Wilson of Charlestown was declared winner over Pal Reid of Boston after twelve rounds of fast and furious milling before a crowd variously estimated at from 5,000 to 8,000, at the Fenway A. A. show in Mechanics Building.

Reid had many sympathizers in the throng and most of them were inclined to take exceptions to the verdict of Referee Noah Perry. To most of those seated near the ring, however, the official award seemed correct.

It was simply a case of a good two-handed boxer going against a boy with a good left, and the man with two hands winning. Wilson rarely if ever fought better than he did against Reid. The Charlestown boxer was fast and shifty and used his knowledge of ring matters to good advantage whenever the aggressive Reid attempted to force matters. Pal was always willing, but was met by with as good if not better punches than he threw. Wilson was not blocking the sailor's leads.

Only one round could be given to Reid. In the eighth he rocked Wilson with an uppercut to the mouth and made the Charlestown boy give ground. But Reid's advantage was not of long duration, as Wilson was out in the ninth fighting as hard and cleverly as ever.

Frank Tillo of the North End defeated Al Calsone of Milford in twelve rounds and Paul Doyle of this city won over Barney Adair of New York in the same number of sessions. Honors were taken in the second round of the curtain raiser by Steve Kennedy of Lawrence, who stopped Johnny Marto.

JAWSON TO BATTLE ON NEXT THREE NIGHTS

Colonel Ikey Woods is doing pretty well for a young fellow as a manager, and, according to the present schedule, has Joe Jawson framed up in three battles on as many nights. Jawson is slated to show at Quincy tonight, at Brockton tomorrow night against Jack Russo and at Milford Saturday afternoon with Al Calsone. Jawson is going to rest up Sunday night unless he changes his mind in the meantime.

Gauvin Beats Sullivan

Dover, N. H., April 8—Young Gauvin of Somersworth won over Kid Sullivan of Lewiston, Me., in a ten-round bout. Sullivan's gameness was the only thing that enabled him to stay the limit. He was barely able to stand up in the final round.

Boxers to Get Busy in C. A. C. Ring

With the amateurs and the two big league club affairs out of the way the fight fan still has another show that calls him forth for another boxing evening. Bob McKirdy has fixed up the nicest little layout for tomorrow night that the Commercial has staged for many a day.

The main bout will show K. O. Miller against Young Grady of Vermont. Both boys are hard wallopers, and as the battle is slated for twelve rounds the fans are sure to see some action.

The semi-final also runs a close second to the main guns for pep with Young Gould of Brockton and Nap Lajoie of Woonsocket slam-banging it through eight rounds.

The two sixes which open the evening's festivities are also on the up and up for speed. In the first Young Kansas of Providence clashes with Young Bora of Cambridge while in the other Young Cunningham of East Boston and Young Napa clash.

PETER FOLEY TO ESSAY MARATHON ONCE MORE

Declaring that he is as good a man today as many of those entered in the annual American Marathon run, Peter W. Foley of Oak street, Winchester, will celebrate his sixty-fifth birthday by chasing the B. A. A. runners over the Ashland to Boston Marathon course.

For many years this athlete, whose birthday falls on April 17, has made it a practice to participate unofficially in the Patriots' Day run and thus far he has never failed to finish. When fifty-five years of age he traveled the course in three hours and four minutes. His time last year was four hours and eight minutes, but for several weeks he has been training for the event and expects to pass many of the regular entrants before he reaches the B. A. A. clubhouse on Exeter street.

TECH ATHLETIC CLUB AFTER NEW MEMBERS

The newly formed Athletic Club of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology launched its membership drive to the student body at a mass meeting held today in Smith Hall of the institution buildings. Dean Alfred E. Burton, Frank M. Kanaly, coach of the track team, and J. W. Keller, '21, newly elected president of the club, addressed the undergraduates.

Coogan Shades Mitchell

Detroit, April 8.—Mel Coogan of Brooklyn shaded Richie Mitchell of Milwaukee in ten rounds of speedy boxing. A left to the chin dropped Mitchell for the count in the seventh round.

INDIANS RATED AS STRONGEST

Fullerton Gives Cleveland Top Place in American League Team Comparison

By HUGH S. FULLERTON.

Cleveland.

At last, after five of the most crushing disappointments any team ever suffered, the Cleveland Indians rank high enough in the dope to win the American League pennant, even should the ill luck that has followed them ever since they entered the league run against them this season.

The Indians figure 378 points ahead of the Yankees, who dope second in the race—so far ahead in fact that the Yankees must, either through luck or some development of the team, overcome a 3 per cent. handicap to beat the Orators, or Speakers, out of the pennant.

Three per cent. superiority in the dope is a big thing in baseball, and it is an unusual one

It can remember only two teams which at this season of the year doped that much ahead of the other teams. In fact the excitement in Cleveland over the pennant prospects appears to be justified, not only because the percentages favor the team, but because the superiority exists in every department of the dope, excepting sheer slugging, and much of the figure superiority of Cleveland is due to pitching strength.

New York, which has been touted as a winner among the Eastern students of the game, has not developed the strength claimed for the outfit. In fact a considerable part of the strength claimed has been shown to be fallacious.

Batting Strength Gives Yanks Second Place

The fact that the Yankees rank second in the dope is due to their hard hitting, rather long hitting, and to the general excellence of the pitching staff. The team is heavily handicapped by its excessive slowness of foot, which is difficult to overcome if it is faster than it has been in the last two years, but still slow

The team does not figure as well in these closing days of the Spring training as it did three weeks ago The injury of Pratter, a brilliant, brainy lad with lots of speed and nerve, hurt the infield terribly. It probably will result in bringing Frank Baker to the rescue of his team, for Baker determined to retire, he probably would sacrifice his own desires to help the club. He must start and work into condition, which hurts. Pratt, too, has slowed terribly. The loss of Bodie clips a few points off the team strength. Bodie is not a good ball player, but during the first two months of any season is extremely valuable as he hits hard until the pitching gets steady and fast.

The chances of the Yanks, Boston and Detroit of finishing second are extremely close. The Red Sox retained by the remnants of strength of the old championship machine, still figure fourth and there seems little that, while the team is not as strong in stars this year as last, it will play and is playing better ball and working together better. Detroit's chief weakness is almost entirely in pitching. The attacking strength always has been there. It is not much augmented, but there is no need to increase the attacking strength if the defensive holes up. The weak spot of the team is been catching and pitching, and under the leadership of Coombs the pitchers appear to be working better. Besides that Jennings has added promising material.

White Sox and Browns Virtually Tied

In the next bunch we find the Browns and White Sox practically tied in the figures. The White Sox still have spotty strength scattered around, but the machine is badly jumbled and reports from the training camps indicate that the worst has been told. The White Sox are fairly out of it as a pennant proposition and would have to have a lot of luck to get into the first division The Browns, on the other hand, have possibilities. The team figures sixth place. It has more speed than any team in the league, but needs consistent pitching and the attack is pretty well outclassed.

Washington and Philadelphia both present stronger clubs than they had at year, but neither is a serious

Lucas; second base, C. C. Lee; third base, C. C. Buell; short stop, R. Worthington; outfielders, M. J. Vikin, F. D. Thayer and G. Owen. Fur and Fun

I GET a lot of fun out of my business by giving better value for less money.

This Spring, I'm having more fun than a small boy at the circus, because the Australian rabbit fur I bought two years ago at less than half what it costs today, makes it possible for me to do stunts that other hatters call "merchandising miracles."

I can't pull a rabbit out of a silk hat with my sleeves rolled up, but I'm making soft hats out of imported rabbit's fur this Spring for $3.85, that have all the quality you want in a good hat, and all the style you can get anywhere at any price.

For the young fellow who has been looking for something different since the first Armistice Day, I've got a nifty, new turban brim, with a bow in the back.

This Day in Our History—April 8, 1920

THIS is the anniversary of the landing in Florida, in 1513, of Ponce de Leon, the Spanish adventurer, who sought the fabled fountain of youth reported to exist by the roamncers, who saw all sorts of wonders in the New World. Needless to say, De Leon never found the elixir of youth.

Circassian Walnut

CIRCASSIAN walnut is sold by the pound or the ton and not by the foot. As early as 116 B. C. it was introduced into Italy from Persia. The logs are sold from the forest with their bark on. Only the heart of the wood is used, and it is the crooked, irregular logs that possess the best figured wood.

THE YOUNG DIANA

Story of Extraordinary Mystery, in Which the Heroine Holds Key to Youth and Beauty

An Experiment of the Future

By Marie Corelli

"BYRON is the only English poet known and honored in other countries than England—your modern verse writers are not understood in France, Italy or Russia. Half a dozen of Byron's stanzas would set up all the British latter-day rhymers with ideas—only, of course, they would never admit it. I'm glad I've met an Englishwoman who has sense enough to appreciate Byron."

"Think yes!" said Diana in a small, meek voice. "You are most kind!"

Here Farness rushed in again upon his argument.

"That glass dome——"

Diana smothered a tiny yawn. "Oh, that's an astronomical place!" she said, indifferently. "You know the kind of thing! Telescopes, globes, mathematical instrumente—all those sort of objects."

The Marchese looked surprised—then incredulous.

"An astronomical place?" he repeated. "Are you sure? Have you seen it?"

"Why, yes, of course!" and she laughed. "Haven't you?"

"Never! He allows no visitors inside it."

"Ah, it earnest you're too inquisitive!" and she looked at him with a bland and compassionate tolerance. "You see, being a woman, I don't care about difficult studies, such as astronomy. Women are not supposed to understand the sciences—they never can grasp anything in the way of mathematics, can they?"

Farness hesitated.

Chauvet interposed quickly.

"They can—but to my mind they cease to be women when they do. They become indifferent to the softer emotions——"

"What emotions?" queried Diana, unfurling a little fan and waving it slowly to and fro.

"The emotions of love—of tenderness—of passion——"

Soft Emotions.

"Ah, yes! You mean the emotions of love, of tenderness, of passion—for what? For man? Well, of course!—the most surface knowledge of mathematics would soon do an end to that sort of thing!"

"Dear English madame, you are pleased to be severe!" said Chauvet. "Yet the soft emotions are surely woman's distinguishing charm!"

She laughed.

"Men like to say so," she replied. "Because it flatters their vanity to arouse these 'soft emotions' and translate them into love for themselves. But have you had any experience, Professor? If any woman had displayed 'soft emotions' toward you, would you not have been disposed to nip them in the bud?"

"Most likely! I am not an object for sentimental consideration—I never was. I should have greatly regretted it if one of your charming sex had wasted her time on herself and me."

Just then Madame Dimitrius spoke.

"Dear Miss May, will you play us something?" She readily acquiesced, and seating herself at the grand piano, which was open, soon scored a triumph. Her playing was scrupulously finished, and as her fingers glided over the keys, the consciousness that she was discoursing music to at least one or two persons who understood and appreciated it gave her increased tenderness of touch and beauty of tone. The dreamy feeling of sitter hopelessness which had prevaded her, body and soul, when playing to her fathm sall mather. "Ma" asleep on the sofa, and "Pa" hidden behind a newspaper, neither of them knowing or caring what composer's work she performed, was changed to a warm, happy sense of the power to give pleasure, and the ability to succeed—and when she had finished a distinctly wild little sonata of Grieg's, pressing its soft, half-sobbing final chord as daintily and healthily as she would have folded a child's hands in sleep, a murmur of real rapture and surprised admiration came from all her hearers.

"But you are a genius!" exclaimed the Baroness Rouillon. "You are a professional virtuoso, surely!"

"There no such an accusation!" laughed Diana. "I don't think I could play to an audience for money, —it would seem like selling my soul. No, there I can't follow you," said Chauvet. "That's much too high-flown and romantic for me. Why not sell anything if you can find buyers?"

His little eyes glittered ferret-like between his secretive eyelids, and Diana smiled, seeing that he spoke ironically.

"This is an age of selling," he went on. "The devil might buy souls by the bushel if he wanted them. (And if there were such a person!) And as for music—why, it's as good for sale and barter nowadays as a leg of mutton! The professional musician is as eager for gain as any other merchant in the general market—and if the spirit of Sappho sang him a song from the Elysian fields, he'd sell it to a graphophone agency for the highest bid. And you talk about 'selling your soul' dear Madame, with a thousand pardons for my brusqueris, you talk nonsense! How do you know you have a soul to sell?"

Before she could reply, Dimitrius interposed—his face was shadowed by a stern gravity

"No jesting with that subject, Professor!" he said. "You know my opinions. Sacred things are not for ordinary talk—the issues are too grave—the realities too absolute."

Chauvet coughed a little cough of embarrassment, and took out a pair of spectacles from his pocket, polished them and put them back again for want of something else to do. The Marchese Farness looked up—his expression was eager and watchful—he was on the alert. But nothing came of his expectancy.

An Encore

"Play to us again, Miss May," continued Dimitrius in gentler accents. "You need be under no doubt as to the existence of your soul when you can express it so harmoniously."

She colored with pleasure, and turning again to the piano played the "Prelude" of Rachmaninoff with a verve and passion which surprised herself. She could not indeed explain why she, so lately conscious of little save the fact that she was a solitary spinster "in the way" of her would-be juvenile father, and with no one to care what became of her, now felt herself worthy of attention as a woman of talent and individuality, capable of asserting herself as such wherever she might be. The magnificent chords of the Russian composer's despairing protest against all insignificance and meanness, rolled out from under her skilled finger-tips with all the pleading of a last appeal—and everyone in the room, even Dimitrius himself, sat, as it were, spellbound and touched by a certain awe. An irresistible outburst of applause greeted her as she carried the brilliant finale to its close, and she rose, trembling a little with the nervous and novel excitement of finding her musical gifts appreciated. Professor Chauvet got up slowly from his chair and came towards her.

Tame and Humble

"After that, you may lead me where you like!" he said. "I am tame and humble! I shall never disagree with a woman who can so express the pulsations of a poet's brain—for that is what Rachmaninoff has put in his music. Yes, chere Anglaise!—I never flatter—and you play superbly. May I call you chere Anglaise?"

"If it pleases you to do so!" she answered, smiling.

"It does please me—it pleases me very much"—he went on—"it is a sobriquet of originality and distinction. An Englishwoman of real talent is precious—therefore rare. And being rare, it follows that she is dear—even to me! Chere Anglaise, you are charming!—and if both you and I were younger I should risk a proposal!"

Everyone laughed—no one so than Diana.

"You must have had considerable training to be such a proficient on the piano!" inquired Farness with his look of almost aggressive curiosity.

"Indeed no!" she replied at once. "But I have had a good deal of time to myself one way and the other, and as I love music, I have always practiced steadily!"

"We must really have an 'afternoon' in Geneva," said the Baroness Rouillon then. "You must be heard, my dear Miss May! The Genevese are very intelligent—they ought to know what an acquisition they have in their musical society——"

"Oh, no!" interrupted Diana, anxiously. "Please! I could not play before many people——"

"No—like everything which emanates from genius, the few of the finest quality is for the few," said Dimitrius. "Where two or three are gathered together there am I in the midst of them," is the utterance of all god-like Presences. Only two or three can ever understand."

To Help Her

Diana thanked him mutely by a look, and conversation now became general. In a very short time the little party broke up and Dimitrius accompanied his guests in turn to the door. The Rouillons took Farness with them in their automobile. Professor Chauvet, putting on a most unbecoming and very shabby great-coat, went on his way with a wiry step—he lived but half a mile or so further up the road.

"In a small cottage, or chalet"—he explained "a bachelor's hermitage where I shall be happy to see you, Miss May, if you ever care to come. I have nothing to show you but books, minerals and a few jewels—which perhaps you might like to look at. Strange jewels!—with histories and qualities and characteristics—is it not so, Dimitrius?"

Dimitrius nodded.

"They have their own mysteries, like everything else," he said.

Diana murmured her thanks for the invitation and bade him good-night—then, as he went out of the room with her host, she turned to Madame Dimitrius and with a gentle, almost affectionate consideration, asked if she could do anything for her before going to bed.

"No, my dear!" answered the old lady, taking her hand and patting it caressingly. "It's kind of you to think about me—and if I want you I'll ask you to come. But an old woman to be more useful than she is! But wait a few minutes—I know Feodor wishes to speak to you."

"I have not displeased him, I hope, in any way" Diana said, a little anxiously. "I felt so 'at home' as it were, that I'm afraid I spoke a little too frankly as a stranger——"

"You spoke charmingly!" Madame assured her—"naturally, with a perfect independence, which we admire. And need I say how much both my son and I appreciate your quickness of perception and tact?"

She laid a slight emphasis on the last word. Diana smiled and understood.

"People are very inquisitive," went on Madame. "And it is better to let them think you are a friend and guest of ours than the person for whom my son has been advertising. That advertisement of his caused a great deal of comment and curiosity—and now that he has said he has withdrawn it and that he does not expect to be suited, the gossip will gradually die down

What's In a Name?

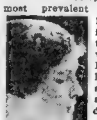
MARY

PARADOXICAL as it is, the sweet name of Mary means bitter. Mary is perhaps the most prevalent name of all languages, due in large degree to religious devotion to the Blessed Virgin. Indeed, there are so many Marys and so many derivatives and diminutives of the name that each one requires separate treatment, and this article will be limited to the simple Mary and its Spanish and French spellings, Maria and Marie.



Copyright by Harris & Ewing

The first well-known bearer of the name was the sister of Moses and Aaron, who led the sons of the Israelites when they saw their enemies dead upon the seashore. Though the most honored name among women, it is one which has caused a great deal of contention regarding its source. Some say it comes from mer! (stubbornness), others that it is from marah (bitterness). The most poetical explanation of all is that it comes from the Latin and Teutonic for the morning sea, and hence Mary is "Star of the Sea."

The first Maria was a Spanish maiden martyred by the Moors in 851. However, the Spanish name Urraca was identical with Maria, and this name flourishes in Spanish history and ballad literature. The infants Dona Urraca, or Maria, was prevented from becoming Queen of France because of the uncouth sound of her name, Urraca, whereas, if she had lived a century later, she might have been called Queen Marie. Other famous Marias were Maria of Antioch, wife of Emperor Manuel; Maria, wife of the Marquis of Montserrat; Maria, daughter of Louis VII.; Maria, translator of Breton legends for Henry III., and Marie, daughter of Edward I. The actual name of Mary comes through the French from the Blessed Virgin.

Mary's jewel is the moonstone, whose mystic qualities are more appropriate, as well as its close association with heaven, reflecting as it does the waning of the moon. Mary's lucky day is most fittingly the seventh day, Sunday, and 3 is her lucky number.

Scarcely a poet has neglected the sweet name of Mary, and one of the most charming, written to a portrait by Lord Byron, runs:

"This faint resemblance of thy charms,
Though strong as mortal art could give,
My constant heart of fear disarms,
Revives my hopes, and bids me live."

Mrs. Solomon Says—

By HELEN ROWLAND

Copyright, 1920, by The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.

MY Daughter, a saccharine damsel is as sugar upon eggs; but a caustic woman is as a green persimmon to the teeth.

And a female CYNIC, who can bear one?

Why, then, doth a flapper yearn always to appear world-weary and sophisticated?

Why would she rather be BLASE than President? Go to! I charge thee let no woman call herself a "Cynic" until she hath been married at least once! For a spinster, though she hath been disappointed in love, seven times seven times, yet always believeth that somewhere there existeth an Ideal Marriage, and a Flawless Man.

Moreover, thou Foolish One, if thou wouldst be a sincere Cynic, thou must first have been a sentimentalist!

For lo, a Cynic is but a Sentimentalist, in whose heart the wine of love hath turned to vinegar—a dreamer, whose sweetest dreams have soured on her hands—an idealist, who hath been caught gathering the flowers of imagination by the wayside, when the thunder shower of Fate broke over her.

Likewise, if thou wouldst be an honest Cynic, thou must have LOVED much and often.

For thus only shalt thou learn that one man's words are as smooth as another's, one man's chin is as rough as another's, and one man's promise as brittle as another's. Thus only shalt thou discover that masculine "love" is but a fantasy of Spring, consisting mainly of moonlight, curiosity and imagination; and that a man's love of pursuit is greater than his love of WOMAN!

Likewise, if thou WILT be a CYNIC, thou must first have been a "platonic friend," unto more than one youth. For, how else shalt thou discover that, unto a man, "platonic friendship" is but the short cut to an end—and the end a KISS?

Verily, verily, thou shalt have hearkened unto the honored words of beauty specialists and milliners—and BELIEVED them; thou shalt have put thy trust in the golden promises of many beauty cream advertisements; thou shalt have tried an hundred "hand laundries" and been torn apart by them; thou shalt have placed thy faith in many "reducing diets," and waxed fat thereon!

Thou shalt have dallied with a Ouija board—and been deceived thereby!

How, then, shall any Damsel hope to be a Cynic?

For Life is like unto a cream puff, at which a simple maiden gazeth hungrily. But a CYNIC is one that hath opened the puff and found it hollow!

And is it not better to be happy than wise?

Is it not sweeter to be loved than cynical?

Yea, verily!

Selah.

For the Spring Wedding

SOME HINTS VALUABLE AND USEFUL

By Loretto C. Lynch,

THE days when the whole family had to sacrifice the very necessaries of life that the bride might have a wedding far out of keeping with her social position is, I hope, passing. Sensible girls, who know that they cannot afford the elaborate weddings of the ultra-fashionable, will do well to revert to the simplicity in the matter of weddings which the really wealthy girls have made so popular.

A girl's wedding day is that important day in her life when the rest of us should do everything in our power to relieve her of every detail that may in any way make her the tiniest bit unhappy or distressed. A bride should not arrive at her wedding hour tired from attending to a thousand and one last minute details that she is just at the end of her nerves and far beyond the stage where one may enjoy the great day.

And so the caterer should be planned well in advance so that the last minute details are few indeed. We always connect feasting with weddings. If one can afford to do so, it is well to hire a caterer. But with the high cost of labor today, the average bride cannot afford the services of a caterer.

The kind of refreshment served will depend somewhat upon the hour of the day. The woman who prepares the food will do well to plan a few simple dishes rather than many often beyond her ability to prepare properly. Let us suppose that the wedding is an evening affair. To be followed by a fancy sort of supper.

It is well to start off such a meal with a relish or an appetizer. Grapefruit (sliced) or a fruit cocktail is often used. For twelve servings allow six grapefruit, six oranges and at least one dozen canned cherries. Pare the fruit, remove seeds and tough core and cut it into half inch cubes. Thoroughly chill the fruit and serve piled high in fancy dessert glasses. Garnish with cherries.

A good chicken salad is acceptable to most people. It is well to choose this dish because it may be prepared well in advance and does not spoil by standing. Three four-pound chickens will make sufficient salad for a dozen guests. Either roast or pot-roast the birds. Remove the skin and bones and dice the meat. This may be prepared the day before, wrapped in a towel and stored in a covered receptacle in the refrigerator.

Five or six stalks of table celery should be cut into small pieces to mix with this shortly before serving. Mayonnaise should be mixed into the salad but a short time before serving, as it thins down too much if it is mixed in too far in advance

Three heads of lettuce will give sufficient leaves for bedding a dozen or more salads. A can of pimentos cut with a heart shaped cutter into numerous loving bright red hearts will be quite appropriate for the occasion. Olives are also used as a garnish for salads. Rinse off the brine that comes with bottled olives and chill the olives thoroughly before using. A salad as well as the plates upon which it is served should be chilled well before serving.

Tiny rolls are appropriate to serve with salads

Besides ice cream and small cakes there must be a wedding cake. And since others have invited guests expect a piece of the cake it is better to make up at least ten pounds. Any of the better stationery shops will sell you appropriate little boxes for serving individual portions. Some of these are covered with white paper and others are covered with lovely white bridal satin.

The Two Voices

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

A New Romance of American Life With Hugh Rodney, Son of a Rich Manufacturer, as the Hero

CHAPTER XLVIII.

Copyright, 1920, Star Co.

RUTH COURTNEY'S book had fallen to her lap while she sat musing in the library. She was tired of thinking, tired of wondering. Gradually the lids drooped over her aching eyes and she sank into a light slumber.

She was roused by a sound that brought her to her feet. Doris was singing. And the song was the one she had sung to Hugh Rodney only a few hours ago.

Ruth stood with her hands pressed to her eyes as she listened. In fancy she saw the couch in front of the hearth, shaded from the light by the screen drawn between it and the window. And on the couch sat a thin figure, his head buried in his hands as he listened to the music for which he had begged.

Doris had sung wretchedly this afternoon. The sister had recognised this fact at the time. She also knew that Hugh had recognised it. Ruth had attributed Doris' mistakes and poor performances to her nervousness in the presence of the man who loved her.

But Doris was making no mistakes tonight. There was a clear quality and a joyous tone in her voice that brought tears of anger to the sister's eyes.

"She is happy now—that's it!" she muttered hotly. Then—"Poor, shallow little Doris!"

Deeply in Love

Doris making music in the room across the hall could not have understood her sister's indignation nor pity. She would have declared that Ruth's nature was too complex for a single girl like herself to comprehend.

But one thing she did understand,—that her song was affecting the man who stood at the piano listening to her. When she finished, she did not look up, but asked softly, as she dropped her hands in her lap:

"Do you like it? Did I sing it all right?"

"You sang like an angel," was the muttered reply.

Still she did not look up. "I am glad you think so," she remarked, her eyes upon the little pearl ring which she was twisting and turning on the third finger of her left hand. "I am glad, because, you see, I had quite a jolt about that song this afternoon. I sang it to Hugh—and he was disappointed."

"Disappointed."

The elucidation was so incredulous that the girl smiled archly.

"Yes, Ralph—disappointed. But, to be honest, I did not sing as well then as I did just now."

Norton drew a step nearer.

"Why," he asked.

"Because," she faltered, still turning the ring about on her finger, "I was singing for Hugh then—and I was unhappy, and——"

"And just now?" he interrupted.

"I was singing for—you," she whispered.

"And you were happier?" he demanded.

She nodded, her eyes still downcast.

With an exclamation of ecstasy he gathered her into his arms.

"Doris, darling—do you mean that? Do you mean that you are happy when you are with me?"

"Yes, Ralph."

"And won't you believe that I am happier with you than I can ever be this side of heaven? In fact—you make my heaven here. Oh, darling, I have waited very patiently, or tried to wait patiently. But my heart has been hungry for you all the time. You do love me, don't you?"

"Yes," she said, and as she spoke she lifted her eyes to his.

"You could not look at me like that unless you did love me!" he declared joyously. "Darling, you never loved Hugh Rodney like this! You only thought that you cared for him because he loved you. There is no use in your saying that you felt for him what you feel for me. No woman can love like that twice."

Doris Courtney had the happy faculty of dwelling only in the present, so she had no trouble in banishing past scenes from her memory.

"No," she said, "As soon as I saw Hugh this afternoon I knew it had all been a horrible mistake, that I had become engaged to him only through pity for him because he was so crazy about me. But I feel now as if he were dead."

"He might just as well be dead if you do not love him," Ralph rejoined tenderly.

Doris smiled. "What a wonderful way you put things, Ralph. But I am glad that you do not think me unkind or even unfair to poor Hugh. Perhaps I might have forced myself for awhile longer to pretend to care for him—"

"And sin against yourself in doing so!" the man burst forth. "Do not suggest such a dreadful thing!"

"No," she said, "I must not. For the very idea of it makes me quite miserable."

Little Affair

"I am thankful," Ralph ventured after a while, "that nobody knew of your little affair with Rodney."

"So am I," his betrothed admitted. "I was not sure of myself, you see, so I insisted that nobody except the family should know of the matter. As to our engagement—I will let you decide who shall know it besides mother and Ruth."

"You mean to tell your sister so at once?" the man asked doubtfully.

"Oh, yes," was the prompt reply. "It will make it easier for me in the long run if Ruthie knows. As sne is a great friend of Laura Rodney's, she can tactfully make her understand that my engagement to Hugh is broken forever."

"And you will not go to the Rodneys again," Ralph urged.

"Oh, no!" the girl exclaimed. "I could not bear it. I shall never go there again!"

To Be Continued.

A Forcible Fact

Lawyer, sarcastically to plaintiff—"As a matter of fact you were scared half to death and didn't know whether it was a motor-car or something resembling a motor-car that hit you."

Plaintiff—"It resembled one all right. I was forcibly struck by the resemblance!"

This new form of soap—in fine granules—brings a new way of washing clothes

THIS coming Monday—you won't have to rub solid cake soap on your clothes. You won't need chip soap. Or soda. Or harsh "washing powders" that eat the fabric.

You won't have to wear your clothes out over the hard metal washboard.

You can simply soak your clothes overnight (or for three hours) with the wonderful new soap product, Rinso.

Rinso comes in granules—of finer quality ingredients than were ever used before for the family washing!

You just rinse—the dirt floats out. Only very soiled parts, neckbands, cuffs, etc., need a little rubbing with the hands.

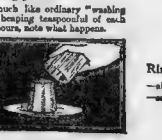
You are amazed. You don't have to stand over the washboard, and rub and rub. Your clothes are so clean, you don't even have to boil them—unless you wish to occasionally, just to sterilize.

Try this wonderful new way next Monday. Follow the easy directions on the package. Get Rinso from your grocer. One 8c package will do a week's washing. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass. (Makers of Lux.)

Rinso is not a "washing-powder"

The fine granules of Rinso look very much like ordinary "washing powder." But make this test. Use a heaping teaspoonful of each to a glass of boiling water. After a few hours, note what happens.

"Washing Powder"
—high in harsh chemicals
—low in soap
it goes out



Rinso
—absolutely harmless
—so rich in soap
it "fills"

NEW ISSUES ON BOSTON LIST

Atlas Tack and John T. Connor Common Traded in on Boston Exchange

Stocks were irregular on the Boston Stock Exchange but at the opening gains exceeded losses in the ratio of two to one. Trading in Atlas Tack and John T. Connor Co. common issues began on this exchange this morning. Atlas Tack's directors unchanged from its closing price on the curb here yesterday. Connor sold a fraction below its final curb quotation. Island Creek touched at a new high for the year. Interest in investment was the big morning feature. At its forenoon highest it was up four points. Stewart was another strong issue.

Rent and Van Dervoort advanced a point and fractional gains were made by New Haven, Carson Hill, Eastern Manufacturing, Libby, Swift & Co., Bigheart and Superior and Boston.

United Fruit declined two points on a single sale. Point recessions were shown by American Woolen, Mills and Edison. Smaller losses were recorded against Davis-Daly, Lake Shore, Ventura, National Leather, Swift International, Waldorf and Gray & Davis.

CURB HAD DULL START.

There was little to curb trading at the opening and this market was dull as well as weak. Interest was largely confined to silvers. Among strong issues at the outset were Boston & Montana, United Verde Extension, International Silver, Manhattan and Arizona Extension. Weak ones included Rex, Black Hawk, Gadsden, Pilgrim, Arizona Silver and Bagdad.

At the end of an hour Bagdad was off 5 cents at 18 cents, Boston & Montana 1 cent at 82 cents, Mutual trust 1 cent at 17 cents and Arizona Extension 1 cent at 5 cents. Eureka had advanced 1-16 to 1 7-16 and S. W. Miami ¼ to 1¼.

BOSTON FINANCIAL NOTES.

Atlas Tack earnings so far in 1920 are estimated to be at least $3 a share for the year, and the company's publication says it will be able to pay a $2 dividend shortly.

President Fred C. Chase of the Chase Engineering and Manufacturing Co., a director of Brookline Trust Co., which is now occupying a new bank building in Brookline Square.

President Arnold Hartmann of Hartmann Bros. Co. has gone to Europe for a two months' trip. Trade conditions in South America are business for his corporation.

Western Investment Co. for 1919 earnings amounted to 2,295,979 after expenses, charges and preferred dividends, equal to $4.27 a share on common, as compared with $3.47 a share. Operator was $1,500,000 money at time in connection and $10,000 in real estate.

Utah Apex Mining Co. has increased its capital from $750,000 to $1,250,000 by the issuance of 5,000 additional $100 shares. Under which increases are as follows: The Cranklin Consolidated Mining Co. from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000; Manufacturers Co. from $500,000 to $750,000; Mexican Metals Co. from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000; Mexican Mines of El Oro from $500,000 to $1,000,000; Mitchell Woodbury Company from $250,000 to $500,000; Utah Metals Co. from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000. Additional shares of preferred stock par $100.

Rail Freight Rates Low

Freight rates in this country have been the lowest in the world, and how low they are is revealed by railroad administration statistics. People who are prejudiced against carriers have to reason with public service reports. The railroad administration reports that receipts per ton per mile by the roads in 1918 was 8.58 mills. In other words, railroads have been carrying a ton of freight a mile for 8.58 mills. In 1919 they averaged 9.04 mills. This indicates that transportation rates have not figured to any great extent in increasing the cost of living.

Stocks were strong in New York at noon, and but little below the morning highest. Some issues, including rails, were at their best. Sugars and rubbers were rather heavy, but automotors, oils and equipments were near their highest. The market was very active, transactions for the morning totalling 772,000 shares. Call money renewed at 6 per cent. Sterling exchange opened slightly higher, but lire and francs were quoted lower.

Issues to show the largest gains included Stromberg, Vanadium, American Locomotive, Baldwin, Chandler, General Motors, Studebaker and Republic Steel. At noon they were up from three to eight points.

RYAN STOCKS WERE LEADERS.

Prices advanced when the market opened, and recalled Ryan stocks being leaders. They were active and made large gains, Vanadium Steel, Stromberg and Hupp Motor sold at their highest since listed on the exchange, Studebaker and American Locomotive sold at their years highest, and Corn Products at a new high record price. Rails were in general, but not large as a rule. There was no pronounced tendency during the first hour, and while prices moved in both directions, the market remained strong, rails showing improvement. Strength was due to covering of shorts and to some new buying by the public. Steels were the strongest group at the start. General Motors was the most active issue, while Texas Co. made the largest early advance among oils. Baldwin was the leader among equipments.

MORE STOCK DIVIDENDS.

The directors of the Manomet Mills of New Bedford have recommended the issuance of $3,000,000 additional stock at $100 a share in order to declare a stock dividend of 6 to 3 per cent. or $2,000,000. New capital will be used to build a 117,000 spindle mill and provide a Manomet capacity of 321,000 spindles. Manomet stock is now selling at $260 a share. Nonquitt Spinning Company also has recommended a 100 per cent. stock dividend, which would increase capitalization to $4,000,000.

The Boston News Bureau says: "It is reported on good authority that the Crucible Steel Company will declare stock dividends are being declared is that eminent lawyers have declared that Congress cannot enact retroactive legislation to affect taxation of dividends this year and that the only step to be taken is to get them out as soon as possible in advance of legislation possibly effective next year."

COPPER SOLD IN LARGE BLOCKS AT 19½ CENTS

Two blocks of copper have been marketed this week that are said to have been an aggregate tonnage of several million pounds. Immediate delivery is required and the price is 19½ cents a pound. A higher price is expected. One leading agency refused a bid of 20 cents a pound for metal to be delivered for a period covering three months.

It is estimated by one producer that sales since March 1 total 400,000,000 pounds. Export sales for one month amounted to 62,000,000 pounds, and it is stated that negotiations have been virtually completed for the sale of a large amount to France. That country is known to need 200,000,000 pounds at once.

NAVAL OIL DELAYED AT BREST, SAYS OFFICER

Washington, April 8.—Adequate supplies of fuel oil were not supplied the naval base at Brest by Admiral Sims until eight months after the steamer Antilles was sunk by submarine attack, Commander Emmitt C. Gudger, who served as Admiral Fletcher's supply officer, testified in the hearing before the naval board of inquiry.

The board is looking into charges made by Admiral Fletcher that he failed to secure proper co-operation from other officers of equal rank on the other side, while he was stationed at Brest.

January and February earnings of the Consolidated Textile Co. amounted to $921,630 and $1,000,000 that net before taxes for the two months was at the rate of $4,918,500 annually, equivalent to $18.50 a share a year on the 267,037 shares outstanding.

The first year 1919 the Osceola Consolidated Mining Co. reports net profits after depreciation and Federal taxes of $1,112,000, and reserves for taxes of $1,125,000, equivalent to $1,354,551 or $4.51 a share on common stock, or $1.50 a share on account of an increase cost of 10.08 cents a pound.

PLAN MORE PAY FOR MINISTERS

Methodists May Urge $1,500 Minimum Salary with Residence

The general Methodist conference to be held in Des Moines in May will not be memorialized in regard to women's rights, according to the Rev. A. E. Tyler, secretary of the 144th annual session of the New England conference of the Methodist Church, which opened in People's Temple.

MAY HAVE NEWSPAPER.

The high cost of living will be the subject of considerable debate among the 300 ministerial delegates who are in attendance. It was said, it being very probable that a minimum salary for clergymen of $1,500 per year with residence will be fixed. It was also announced that there is a movement on foot to establish a non-sectarian, non-political daily newspaper under the auspices of the Methodist Church.

Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes, who is presiding at the conference, and who has just returned from the funeral of his brother, Bishop Matthews Hughes of Cleveland, was unable to continue the devotional services. Later a short memorial service was held for Bishop Hughes, which concluded with the singing of "Blest Be the Tie That Binds." Services were also held for departed members of the conference.

DEBATE OVER COMMISSION.

There was a lively debate at the conference as the result of a motion made by the Rev. J. P. Kennedy of People's Temple that the district superintendents be done away with, embody, to a greater or smaller degree, the same qualities and defects of their parents. Following the debate the allocation by him to this Company of rate and valuation, as of the date hereof, of $4,812,280.00 and the issue by this Company of its certificates of capitalization to an amount not to exceed said amount.

Such other business which may properly come before said meeting.

By the purpose of this meeting the transfer books of the Company will be closed from the office hours on March 31, 1920, to be opened on April 12, 1920.

Dated at New Haven, Connecticut, this 31st day of March, 1920.

By order of the Board of Directors.

ARTHUR E. CLARK, Secretary.

"Pussyfoot" Recalled to Battle "Wets"

Columbus, O., April 8.—"Pussyfoot" Johnson, commander-in-chief of the prohibition expeditionary forces, now in Paris, has been recalled to the United States to take charge of the propaganda troops of the home sector, now being warmly bombarded by anti-Volstead barrage.

The P. E. P. chief is due here April 15, according to advices at the Johnson home.

Favors Modifying Methodist Discipline

Many Methodist ministers attending the New England conference in People's Temple, questioned about the amendment clause in the book of discipline, said they wan

MEASURES THAT WOULD CURE MOST OF THE TROUBLES AND TENDENCIES WHICH DISTRESS AND ALARM US TODAY

(1) To nominate for the Presidency by direct nomination and to elect by popular vote.
(2) To elect the Cabinet officers and make them responsible to Congress.
(3) To deprive the President of the power of patronage; to put all public offices as nearly as possible under Civil Service, and have appointments made by a committee of Congress.
(4) To elect Federal Judges, including the Supreme Court Justices, by popular vote.

There Is No Mystery as to Why Mail Service Is So Poor

By a vote of 39 to 12 the Senate has authorized an investigation of the handling of mail in the large cities. This action has been forced by persistent complaints of errors and delays.

The Postal Wage Commission, which started forth gallantly more than a year ago, but which has been more dead than alive, could save the new inquest much time if it would tell what it discovered as to the effects of underpayment upon service.

There is no mystery about why the mails are being handled poorly.

The chief reason is that postal clerks are utterly disheartened. They cannot live on the wages they are receiving. They have almost given up hope that Congress will act in their favor.

Therefore, those who can get better paid employment are resigning, while those who remain are not in a mood to do the best work.

A contented personnel, competently directed, would soon bring order out of the present confusion in the postal service. But this cannot be accomplished without living wages.

The first and greatest step toward restored efficiency is to revise the pay schedules upward; the next, to provide rewards for merit so that personal ambition will survive.

It is amazing to us that Postmaster-General Burleson, who is called the political manager of the Wilson Administration, should show such callous indifference to the urgent needs of the postal employes and to the morale of his own particular department of the Government.

Meat Gluts England; Our Children in Need

The London Times said recently:

The glut of imported meat grows worse. As a result of rationing during the last two years, the consumption of beef and mutton in this country was greatly reduced, and people, having once accustomed themselves to eating less, are still restricting their purchases, although ample supplies are now available.

It is estimated that there are 100,000 tons of meat in cold storage in certain parts of Great Britain. It is said that eight vessels now in dock have on board the equivalent of one million carcasses, and two other meat ships lying in the river carry approximately 318,000 carcasses. Another cold storage warehouse contains 1,650,000 carcasses, and in other parts of England 3,300,000 carcasses are stored.

It is estimated that in England, in storage today, are the carcasses of almost 7,000,000 steers, while in the United States the British Food Ministry has in our warehouses more than 300,000,000 pounds of hog products alone.

It was not so long ago that an official report showed that almost 250,000 children in New York City were undernourished.

Yet we suppose that before long we shall discover another plan to aid poor, hungry Great Britain by a loan.

Japanese Imperialism Puts New Nail in Its Coffin

Japan's imperialistic coup at Vladivostok, achieved five days after the departure of the last returning American troops, may safely be left to work out its own punishment.

Neither Japan's military nor financial power is sufficient to assimilate the conquests which Tokio imperialism has so rashly undertaken. The wider this program of subjugation is extended, the more certain is its eventual downfall.

For the moment poverty and disorganization may find both China and Russia helpless. But the burning sense of outrage common to each will prove a great stimulant. And when these latent giants arise, look out!

But the Vladivostok incident is another interesting sidelight upon the kind of international company our President has been keeping, to say nothing of the warning it sets up for the future.

Million Old Maids Too Many

Copyright, 1920, Star Company.

Dr. Murray Leslie, eminent London physician, says there are 1,000,000 British women doomed to remain unmarried if they stay in England.

This is one of the grave results of the war. A million unmarried women in one country is too many.

A decrease of marriages means one of two things—less children or the legalizing of illegitimacy.

Neither of these results is desirable. One means the decadence of a nation. The other means the encouragement of immorality.

Great Britain lost approximately a million men in the war. With those men alive and married to a million women and the normal birth rate prevailing there would be an annual addition of 250,000 to the British population.

Four years would replace in numbers the war's toll of lives.

The preponderance of women over men means a great tide of emigration.

Women fortunately have a higher sense of morals than men and a greater recognition of their duty to humanity.

They will not remain where immorality prevails or is likely to be legalized.

Noble Scorpion Mother Yes, We Forget Regulating Thought Investigating Rascality

By Arthur Brisbane

(Copyright, 1920.)

Young ladies of the State Normal School at Chico, California, have adopted a scorpion as school mascot.

Do not shudder. A scorpion (female) is the best kind of a mascot for future mothers, the female scorpion being the champion mother of the world.

When its young are born they attach themselves to the mother's back. The mother wanders about, keeping them in the warm sunlight, protecting them from enemies, but getting weaker as she goes, because her young ones are actually devouring her body. When they leave her to start little families of their own she is an empty shell, eaten hollow.

If, however, the Chico Normal School mascot is a male scorpion, it should be discarded as a mascot. The female scorpion, after a brief acquaintance with her husband, kills him and eats him, or eats him before he is dead. The female scorpion is the worse wife as well as the best mother, in which she resembles Olympia's mother of Alexander, who jailed her husband and encouraged her son by pretending that a god was his real father.

Young women may not understand why the mother scorpion makes a good mascot for girls. But tired, worn-out American mothers will understand it. They are not exactly eaten alive by their children, but when they finish cooking, scrubbing, washing and worry for half a dozen of them, there is little of the mother left except an empty shell.

The children wander away from that shell—and so does the husband, too often, plaintively saying, "My wife has not quite kept up with me, as I have risen in the world."

"Shall we ever forget the terrible events of this great war or the excitement of today?" We shall, indeed. Two days ago we celebrated the 151st anniversary of George Washington's first election as President. Did you notice it? On the same day, fifty-eight years ago, the first battle of Shiloh was raging. We managed pretty well to forget that.

Eleven years ago on the same day, Peary landed at the North Pole. He is dead and will soon be forgotten.

And three years ago, on that same day, this country declared war against Germany. Some day, strange as it now seems, we shall forget that, just as we forgot three years ago that once upon a time we had a war with England. Fortunately time is a sponge that wipes the slate clean. That's why death is so useful. It also washes off the slate and lets us start again with a clean page.

In New York's Legislature yesterday two bills were introduced to "wipe out the Socialist party." Those, of course, are bills to regulate thinking. If by law you can wipe out parties and forbid thinking, you can also make laws to wipe out religions and forbid believing.

There was wisdom in the ancient American idea that citizens might believe what they chose, think what they chose, and say what they chose as long as they did not injure others.

Says the Manchester News:

"One doesn't have to hold a brief for Newberry to understand that he is not in the same boat with Berger." That's the true word. And you may add: "It is not necessary to hold a brief for Berger to understand that he is not in the same boat with Newberry."

Berger was never accused of buying or stealing votes. He was elected by an overwhelming majority of his fellow citizens, and sentenced to jail because of what he was alleged to have believed and said.

The United States will "investigate" an alleged effort of Chicago operators to corner all corn for "May delivery." In France they have a republic, the man who gambles in and corners food products to increase the price artificially is sentenced to a long term at hard labor.

Reply to Moorfield Storey by McSweeney and O'Connell

Editor Boston American:

The answer to the statement of Mr. Moorfield Storey in the American of Monday, April 5, may be made briefly.

The implication that any organization was necessary to insure proper attention and a respectful hearing in Boston for the Ulster delegation may be passed without comment. As a matter of fact, and it is hereby gratefully acknowledged, the visit of the Ulster delegation as well as the formation of the Loyal Coalition have been of the greatest service to the cause of Irish freedom.

Mr. Storey says, referring to the Loyal Coalition: "If I understand its object," etc. Is it possible that Mr. Storey has any doubt as to the object of the Loyal Coalition? If not, why this qualification?

The objects of the "Loyal Coalition," with which Mr. Storey thinks he is in sympathy, are:

"To protest against 'having a campaign against a friendly country conducted here.' "American interference between Great Britain and Ireland." "The Loyal Coalition has no program for a subject race of Great Britain, because it prefers to mind its own business, as we expect Great Britain to mind its own business."

Webster's Statement

As to Mr. Storey's allegation of interference with a friendly country, let a great Massachusetts statesman answer for us.

January 19, 1824, speaking in Congress on the question of the appeal for the liberty of Greece from Turkey (a friendly nation), Daniel Webster said:

"Our place (of the United States) is settled for us without our own volition. It is always on the side of free institutions. I think it right not to be unseasonable in the manifestation of sympathy for a long-suffering and struggling people. I am not of those who would in the hour of utmost peril withhold such encouragement as may properly and lawfully be given and, when the crisis was passed, overwhelm the rescued sufferer with kindness and caresses."

As secretary of state, in 1852, in a letter to Charge d'Affaires of Austria Huselman, who had protested against the sympathy shown by the United States towards the aspirations of Hungary for independence, Webster said:

"Nothing will deter either the government or the people of the United States from exercising at their own discretion the rights belonging to them as an independent nation and of forming and expressing their own opinions freely upon great political events which may transpire among civilized nations."

We leave the people to decide whether the voice of Mr. Storey and that of the Loyal Coalition or the voice of Daniel Webster is the voice of liberty and American tradition.

Regarding the contributions to the Irish cause and the Loyal Coalition: The name of every subscriber to the Irish Victory Fund has been published in the Boston Post, and a full and detailed account of expenditures has been made public by the treasurer of the fund.

Similar publicity for the contributions to the Irish Bond Loan is being given daily in the Boston American. The purposes and custodians of these funds have been published repeatedly and officially.

Is Mr. Storey's authority in the Loyal Coalition powerful enough to have it follow this example and publish the contributions to its fund?

Mr. Storey says, further, "Money, as I understand it," will be spent in setting forth objections to American interference between England and Ireland."

Why does he again qualify by "as I understand it?" Money is being collected for this organization by an appeal in which his name is used. Why does he not know? Should he not know fully the purposes for which this money is intended?

Regarding previous Irish funds collected in this country, their purpose was for the carrying out of the constitutional campaign for Home Rule within the British Empire.

The treasurer for a generation in this section, and in fact for the United States, of all the funds collected in this cause, was a great citizen of Boston, recently deceased, whose character, life and patriotism were the admiration of all who knew him. Does Mr. Storey intend to permit the Loyal Coalition to continue by its advertisements aspersing, at least by implication, the honesty and loyalty of this great Boston merchant and philanthropist?

Fight in Open

All that we ask of Mr. Storey and his associates in the "Loyal Coalition" (and he cannot separate himself from them) is the opportunity to meet whatever charges they make face to face in the old-time Yankee fashion, because in the open it will not be possible to degrade a great subject, from the discussion of principles, to the miserable subterfuge of imputing bad motives as a sufficient answer to a good argument.

It will perhaps be admitted by Mr. Storey that, speaking for Boston at least, the campaign in this cause, so far as those in authority can control it, of Americans of Irish blood, has been free from personalities and will continue so. We do not suffer from being traduced, because calumny and abuse have always been essential parts of triumph.

In the words of the late Senator George Frisbie Hoar: "The American spirit . . . . is able . . . . to maintain itself in a fair field. Do not compel her to fight in a cellar. The atmosphere of the Republic is the air of the mountain top, the sunlight and the open field. Her symbol is the eagle and not the bat."

Our only contest is for the perpetuation of American principles, which we do not believe have changed in any particular during the fourteen decades of our national life.

Happy Legless Woman Has Pity for the Venus de Milo

THERE is one woman in the world who is worried not at all by the ever-increasing prices of feminine hosiery and footwear. She is Madame Gabrielle Guenther, a circus freak, who was born without legs—and gets along very well without them.

Madame Guenther, who is one of the most interesting cases of malformation with which science has had to deal, is perfectly formed from her head to her hip bones. She is talented, musical and accomplished. But below the hips she is simply non-existent.

In an interview with the Boston Sunday Advertiser, Madame Guenther tells how she manages to get about, live and enjoy life thus handicapped. "I would not exchange my present state for that of the Venus de Milo, who has legs but is armless," she says. She also pities Helen Keller, born deaf, blind and dumb.

Mme. Guenther has been married for several years, and is entirely happy despite her crippled condition.

The shadows of the famous "Seeley dinner" still are falling upon the lives of the society folk who participated in it. The papers recently have announced the second matrimonial wreck of the bride of Herbert Barnum Seeley, the man who gave the dinner. She is now Mrs. Arnold Lawson, and she is suing her husband, son of the copper king and financier, for divorce. Read the story in next Sunday's Boston Sunday Advertiser.

The very precious and historical pearl necklace of the Duke Charles de Bourbon, perhaps the most famous ill-omened bauble in existence, has been adding new chapters to its record of tragedy and ruin. The necklace has been associated with misfortune ever since the days of the celebrated Sixteenth Century Duke of Bourbon. Today the King of Spain and his family are greatly upset by the latest upheaval of the ill luck that has followed the jewel ever since its first owner was cursed for sacking Rome centuries ago. The story in full, an interesting historical document, appears in next Sunday's Boston Sunday Advertiser, Magazine Section.

Mrs. William P. Whittaker is so beautiful that she caused the death of an innocent man. Yet she is unable to hold her husband. She makes some interesting comments regarding the value of beauty as a means of holding the affection of a man. In next Sunday's Boston Sunday Advertiser.
